'THEY HAVE NO MORALS' Mother's despair as burglars raid the family home

ROW OVER

A BARRY mum of two, who has serious health problems, has been left devastated after burglars stole her car - and items belonging to her teenage children.

Unless the car is recovered, Rita Dimond, aged 37, of South Walk, who needs regular kidney treatment, will have to go to the University Hospital of Wales on the bus.

Rita told The GEM: "On Saturday night I took my 15-year-old son Keiron to the Heath Hospital at 11.30pm after he'd stood on a nail.

"We got back at 3am in the morning. When I got up at 9am, I noticed that his Xbox was missing from under the TV stand.

"I needed to go to the shops and started looking for the keys to my car. I couldn't find them and when I looked outside, I saw the car had gone and realised we had been burgled."

Rita is in poor health and thinks that if she had been feeling better she might have 'come to' and realised what was happening - although the thought fills her with dread.

"Keiron and I slept with the doors to our bedrooms slightly ajar.

by TIM CHAPMAN

"I was tired and feeling ill, otherwise I would have woken up - what would have happened then?"

Rita is grateful that her daughter Chloe wasn't in the house that night.

For the time being, she is having to get lifts from family or catch the bus.

"I need my car because I can't walk that far.

"I have got kidney failure. I had a transplant in 2007, thanks to my sister Theresa, but since then I have had bouts of kidney rejection."

'HARD SLOG'

She knows that at some stage in the future she will need dialysis and a new transplant. In the meantime, she needs to go to appointments at the University Hospital of Wales in Cardiff for blood tests and medical treatment.

"I think the people who did this are scum. They have got no morals. Life is a hard slog, but that doesn't mean I go out robbing others."

Val's close shave for leukaemia cause

WHEN I heard that my niece had leukaemia at the age of 13, I decided I had to fundraise.

To make it unusual, I decided to have a No.1 haircut (right).

I would like to thank all the bowlers at Llantwit Major, and at Sully indoor bowls, and anyone else who sponsored me for their encouragement and generosity.

A big thank you also to Sublime Hair in Rhooose for doing the deed on October 31.

A very special thank you to my partner, John, for his support. I hope to have raised nearly £700, so thank you everyone.

Val Baelz.

'The LDP is disproportionate for conservation villages on A48'

PLANS for the villages of Bonvilston and St Nicholas to increase their number of dwellings by 70 per cent and 60 per cent respectively are unsustainable.

The unprecedented scale and density of the proposed housing in both minor rural settlements does nothing to preserve or enhance the character of the conservation villages.

It is with incomprehension that we read in The GEM last week Coun Moore's comments that Welsh Assembly Government criticism of the previous LDP of overloading the minor rural settlements with disproportionate housing allocations has been addressed in the new LDP plans.

For our small rural communities the reverse is blatantly true with the new LDP proposing a dramatic increase in size to both villages.

MIXING WATER AND ELECTRICITY?

THROUGH The GEM, can I ask that (as the deadline for objections to this application has passed) the Vale Council planning committee members view the attached photo, for this is Flemingston Moor, where the latest planning application for a Solar Panel Farm is to be sited!

Is it really such a good idea to mix electricity supplies with so much water?

There are times when it floods far worse than this picture shows.

Peter Carr, Flemingston.

RIISING COUNCIL TAX IS 'A SCANDAL'

WITH regard to the 'View From The Vale' article in The GEM, on October 31, 2013, the Vale Council Leader, Coun Moore states that a council tax rise is 'inevitable' in the next financial year due to central government cuts.

Is this at all shocking, or even news? Council tax rises year on year, regardless of whether times are good or bad. It will be yet another inflation busting rise that Coun Moore last year dismissed as "just the price of a cup of coffee a week".

Come April, we will all have to find the price of yet another cup of coffee, or possibly even two, on top of all the other costs of cups of coffee from previous years when some people have had no wage increases at all in that time.

And this is just to cover the outrageous increases in council tax, let alone any other inflation busting price increases, such as for domestic energy, road fuel, food etc.

Coun Moore would do well to realise that many Council tax rise: 'enough is enough'

SO now the cat is out of the bag and Coun Neil Moore the Leader of the Vale Council, has said it is now inevitable that once again council tax will have to rise, to plug the gap in the amount of money the council is going to receive from the Welsh Government next year.

He also states that the council may have to bring forward the cuts they had proposed for 2015/2016. Now it looks as if job cuts, leisure centres, libraries etc, will face the brunt of the cuts. Isn't it ironic the council can plead poverty, yet can manage to find a six figure sum to spend on their chamber, which included over £50,000 on chairs?

Where on earth do they expect the residents of the Vale to get this money from to keep paying extortionate council tax demands? It really is time to say enough is enough.

Perhaps they would like to tell us what cuts councillors are going to make. Are they prepared to take a cut in pay, as have council employees?

Yes, I know this is being caused by the Welsh Government, but when you see the amount of waste these politicians spend our money on, then plead poverty, it really is sickening.

DJ Radford, Barry.

Vale Council should 'appeal to the ref'

FRUSTRATION with the failure of the Vale Council to attract regeneration funding is beginning to slip into the past and soon, no doubt, all will become a distant memory.

Many of us will recall the words of irritation from our leading Vale councillors including: annoyed; extremely aggrieved; disgusted; stunned; the Minister changed priority; it was a misguided decision, and a very good bid.

In view of their strength of feeling, one would think an appeal should be inevitable, so it comes as a complete surprise to learn that a statement at a recent cabinet meeting indicated that no appeal would be submitted.

So our councillors are having it both ways by publicly claiming a foul without even bothering with an appeal to the referee.

people gave up buying cups of coffee long ago as they could not afford it.

Since 2001, when I bought my house in the Vale, council tax has increased for my abode by 250 per cent!

No other bill increase in the same time comes anywhere near this outrageous fact.

Council Tax is essentially a monopoly, at least with domestic energy we can switch and save, or just not put the heating on to save on the bill.

Expensive homes pay disproportionately little council tax compared to the cheaper bands.

Council tax increases are way out of control and have been for years, so it cannot only be blamed on cuts from central government.

It is the biggest scandal for all homeowners, unless one has a mansion of course!

Mr C Fitzgerald, Llantwit Major.

'Is Barry falling behind other Welsh towns?'

A RECENT visit took me to the Blackwood Miners' Institute at Blackwood in the county borough of Caerphilly.

I went with a friend of mine who has lived in Barry all his life.

We attended a concert by Andy Fair-weather Low and The Low Riders which was a sell out.

After the concert was over, we decided to make our way home but on exiting the venue we were tempted by the aroma wafting from a local chippy and bought some of the delicious chips on offer.

We then strolled along Blackwood's high street.

We were blown away by the standard of shops, coffee houses and big name retailers - all sharing in the success of a bustling high street.

We both noted that there were no boarded up premises, no signs of a decaying trend in shopping experiences anywhere along the length of Blackwood's high street.

It was a very pleasant experience indeed to see such a success story in such times of economic austerity.

Barry seems littered with charity shops, card shops and boarded up shop fronts. It is one of, if not the largest town in Wales, and is falling behind such places as Blackwood, Bridgend, Caerphilly and other notably vibrant and successful towns in Wales.

Barrie V Evans, Coordinator, The Barry First Group.

Put off by the airport

WHEN I retired to this area in 2001 I was delighted to know that an international airport was only down the road - that was until we used it.

We have used the airport only twice in the following 12 years because it appeared to us that we, as passengers, got in the way. Our experience was that the running of the airport was for the convenience of the 'authorities', rather than for the passengers. Car parking is a disaster - or was.

Perhaps it has changed now and the couple of miles round trip to return to the entrance has been altered. Maybe a disabled parking area is no longer next to a set of steps and has enough space for more than the couple of cars.

It's even possible that customs and excise, immigration, and baggage handling, are sited on the same level, rather than upstairs and downstairs.

The fact is, I am not prepared to take the chance. I shall go elsewhere.

Allan Jones, Penarth.

Controls can be added to shale gas drilling

NICK Stuart is quite right to draw attention to the lack of 'strict controls and guidelines' on fracking (GEM, October 31 letter).

When agreeing to Coastal Oil & Gas's drilling application, the Vale Council ignored the impact on the sensitive environment and wildlife, despite plenty of evidence on the Llantrithyd site submitted to them.

They rubber stamped the company's very high noise levels at nearby homes, far above the World Health Organisation's 30 dB (decibel) limit for disturbance to sleep.

Residents near quarries in the Vale are very aware of noise levels from quarrying, having to tolerate levels of over 40 dB in the daytime, but workings stop evenings and nights.

The Vale Council officers have applied the daytime quarrying noise limits to drilling both daytime and night.

Their excuse was that the inspector allowed this at the Llandow Inquiry two years ago.

That was because the officers failed to support Friends of the Earth arguments for the WHO night-time levels at the inquiry. New permits for fracking-drilling close to communities and in wildlife areas are very different from long-established quarries with buffer zones.

After failing to argue the case on drilling noise at the Llandow inquiry, the council officers are taking their failure as a precedent for the whole Vale. And, as Mike Hancock's letter points out (GEM, October 31), we might expect 400 drill-sites through the Vale.

We saw the chairman of the planning committee put pressure on the members by saying they must not risk the £40,000 costs of another appeal inquiry. This implies we cannot expect the Vale to make planning decisions on merit.

They could insert strong requirements on shale-gas drilling in the LDP (as Andrew Davies AM suggested). Neil Moore's new version includes nothing, yet there's official support in the EU Commission and European parliament resolutions on requiring Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) for all shale gas activities, including drilling - the door to strict controls that Nick Stuart seeks.

Max Wallis, Barry & Vale Friends of the Earth.

Woolly advice...

THE Prime Minister, David Cameron, advises those faced with rising energy bills to wear jumpers, presumably to keep torsos warm.

So of course we should also wear: Woolly trousers to keep bottoms and legs warm; woolly socks to keep feet warm; woolly caps to keep heads warm; gloves to keep hands warm.

So what should we wear to keep noses from turning blue with cold? Gas masks?

It is ludicrous to suggest we should continually remain wrapped up inside our homes where it is basic human nature to want to feel relaxed by kicking off street clothes. Ludicrous advice like this could only come from an out-of-touch Prime Minister.

Marc Delaney, Barry.

HIGH TIDE TIMES (UNTIL NOVEMBER 14)

The high tides listed in this week's GEM are those in Porthcawl. It should be remembered that along the coast, high tide times will vary. For instance, in Barry, the high point will be 20 - 25 minutes later.

DATE	Time	Ht	Time	Ht
	AM	M	PM	M
07 Thur	08.38	9.9	21.01	9.7
08 Fri	09.24	9.6	21.51	9.2
09 Sat	10.13	9.1	22.41	8.7
10 Sun	11.20	8.7	23.49	8.3
11 Mon			12.29	8.4
12 Tues	01.11	8.2	13.48	8.5
13 Wed	02.31	8.3	14.59	8.8
14 Thur	03.34	8.7	15.55	9.1

While The GEM makes every effort to check the accuracy of tide tables, we recommend that anyone putting out to sea, or walking in an area where they could be cut off, should check with a tide table specific to their location.

New support initiative is launched by Town Council

BARRY Town Council is launching a major initiative to provide help to organisations who hold events for the local community.

It already helps dozens of groups and people in the area, but is keen to do more.

The council currently sponsors the Rotary Club of Barry to deliver the annual fireworks display on Barry Island, has a partnership with the Tall Ships Trust to provide a Tall Ships' experience to young people in the town, and supplies the Christmas lights in High Street.

It has provided grants to more than 70 organisations during 2013 benefiting many residents of the town.

A spokesman explained: "Barry Town Council would like to hear from individuals and organisations about the type of events they are planning or organising."

"If what is planned benefits a significant number of the community the council may be able to offer assistance and support."

"People are welcome to come along and share their ideas with councillors anytime between 6pm and 9pm at an informal open evening on Tuesday, November 26 at the Town Council Offices, 7 Gladstone Road, Barry – the offices are attached to the Memorial Hall and Theatre building."

The spokesman added: "It is an opportunity to tell us what events you would like to organise, and how the town council may be able to help."

SPORTS CENTRE HOSTS 'FOOTBALL DEVELOPMENT'

BARRY Town United Football Club, in partnership with the Vale Council, has launched a new Football Centre of Development for the Vale at Barry Sports Centre.

The centre's principal focus is on player development with the assistance of Football Association of Wales (FAW) qualified coaches.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for leisure, parks, culture and sports development, said: "The new centre provides an ideal environment for young players to develop their skill levels under the supervision of committed and experienced coaches."

"I am pleased that the council has been able to support this initiative and I hope local clubs will offer their support by recommending their best players to the centre."

"All players included in the centre of development will play for their own clubs and come together once a week for specialist training."

Gavin Chesterfield, first team manager for Barry Town United added: "Barry Town United Football Club is firmly committed to contributing to the local community. The new centre of development is key to this commitment and will enable us to work with local football clubs to further improve the quality of young players in the Vale."

The Football Association of Wales regional trust team is supporting the new centre, acknowledging that Barry Town United is a bronze level accredited organisation within the FAW's flagship accreditation program.

The club is already working towards FAW Academy status, with the launch of the development centre playing a key role in helping to achieve this status which will be recognised in the official player pathway.

Further details about the Football Centre of Development are available from David Cole on 07557 665847 or via email davidj-cole1948@yahoo.co.uk.

Police appeal after van is broken into POLICE in Barry are investigating an incident which occurred on Pontypridd Road shortly before 11.25pm on Monday, September 30, when a white Peugeot van which was parked on the street was broken into.

Police officers have published CCTV images of two men they want to speak to in connection with the incident and have also issued a description of the two.

The first man is described as white and of stocky build. He was wearing full length trousers and a blue hooded with white writing with the word 'Smiths' and another unknown word.

The second man is also white and of stocky build, although he appears shorter in height. He was wearing a white or light coloured hooded top, and cropped trousers.

Anyone who may recognise either of these men is asked to contact Barry police station on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111 and quote reference 62130308799.

Council appeals for presents

BARRY Town Council is appealing to residents to support its Christmas Present Appeal.

The council, in conjunction with Coastlands Church in Barry is collecting presents to donate to 'The Big Wrap', who will then distribute them to disadvantaged young people throughout the town.

Town clerk Cliff Lewis said: "Projects such as these cannot go ahead without the goodwill of the people of Barry and so Barry Town Council is appealing to residents to donate a present. The council offices will be operating as a 'drop off' point in the run-up to Christmas.

"Presents must either be brand new or in excellent condition and will be wrapped by representatives of 'The Big Wrap', so please don't worry about wrapping them yourselves! Please help make this Christmas, a special one for a young person living in Barry."

Hebron Hall's 30th birthday celebration

ON Tuesday, October 29, eight senior citizens met for lunch in a house on the Hebron Hall complex in Dinas Powys.

Thirty years earlier, the same group, plus some others no longer with us, were on site to take possession of the then Bryn-y-Don school and change its name to Hebron Hall Christian Centre.

Some Christians in and around Cardiff had had a vision to set up a retirement home, but when Bryn-y-Don came on the market, the vision expanded to include much more.

Thanks to the enthusiastic leadership of Ken and Betty Iveson, who hosted the luncheon, and Brian and Pat West, the centre grew from humble beginnings.

It is now a complex comprising conference facilities; a care home, Bethel House; a pool, tennis courts and gym which are used by the Dinas Powys Community, and the King's Court sheltered homes.

Nicola in training for Santa Elf Run

BARRY funeral director Nicola Ellis of Vale Funeral Service has applied to take part in the Santa & Elf Run in aid of Welsh Hearts.

She has been training hard in Barry for her first ever run, and welcomes any sponsorship.

Having previously worked for over 20 years in the Ambulance Service, she knows the importance of having lifesaving equipment available in public places.

Brian Foley (pictured) First Responder with Barry for the Welsh Ambulance Trust, said that in Wales there are approximately 5,000 cardiac arrests outside hospital per year.

For these, there is a survival rate of three per cent. Where an AED (defibrillator) is used, the survival rate is 47-50 per cent.

To sponsor Nicki contact her on 01446 407962 or visit the office at 181 Court Road, Barry.

Row breaks out over hospital cuts

by PHILIP IRWIN

A ROW has broken out over job cuts at the Cardiff and Vale University Health Board – with Conservatives saying that 350 jobs will go, and the health board insisting that a “relatively small number” will be made redundant.

The Shadow Minister for Health, Darren Millar AM, said: “It’s absolutely barmy to cut hundreds of staff at a time when waiting lists are rocketing and unscheduled care is in crisis.”

The South Wales Central AM – and Leader of the Welsh Conservatives – Andrew RT Davies AM, blamed the Welsh Government.

He said: “This news comes as a result of swingeing Labour cuts to the NHS and the fact is that health boards are being dangerously under-funded, forcing them to jump through hoops to make ends meet.”

“It is clear that Cardiff and Vale has been hit particularly hard and as we enter what forecasters expect to be another harsh winter, the timing couldn’t be worse.”

“The whole situation is extremely worrying and it is hard to envisage care standards not being compromised.”

Tracy Myhill, Cardiff and Vale University Health Board’s director of workforce and organisational development, who is also its deputy chief executive, said: “It is important to make clear that Cardiff and Vale University Health Board is not making 400 members of staff redundant.

“When we launched our Section 188 consultation back in June we said that, while some 384 people were potentially at risk, we were committed to ensuring that we found alternative ways of reducing our workforce costs, and that making staff redundant would be the last resort.”

“While we have made no secret of the fact that our financial position is challenging, the vast majority of our proposed workforce changes have come about as a result of modernising services and adopting new and more efficient systems and ways of working.”

“The whole point of consultation is to look at and agree with our trade unions, the mitigating actions which can be taken to avoid making employees compulsorily redundant wherever possible.

“This is the process we have been involved in since June and which, in the case of some proposed changes, is continuing.”

“During the consultation process, we have been able to identify a range of actions which help us to make the changes we need to, without recourse to redundancies.

“These have included redeploying staff into vacancies, redesigning our services, staff leaving through our voluntary early release scheme, and deleting some vacant posts where they are no longer needed.

“We are confident that, by the end of the year, only a relatively small number of staff will find themselves in a redundancy position.”

Andrew RT Davies said the problem was that the health board was under-funded to the tune of £15 million.

He argued: “In a Wales Audit Office report earlier this year, the Auditor General predicted a 2013/14 net loss at Cardiff and Vale of £36.1 million.

“Despite this, the board has been allocated just £21 million from additional Labour government funding, announced as part of this autumn’s draft budget.

“That leaves a funding gap of £15 million pounds.”

He claimed that other health boards were getting preferential treatment, and said that the Aneurin Bevan Local Health Board is set to receive £26 million in extra cash, almost £8 million more than the Wales Audit Office’s estimate of the funding gap it needed to close.

A Welsh Government spokesperson said: “The cumulative impact of the UK Government’s decisions means that our budget has been cut by £1.7 billion in real terms since 2010-11.

“The impact of these cuts on all public services, including the NHS, is inescapable.

“We know that health boards are facing unprecedented levels of demand and additional burdens, and have responded by increasing the health budget in Wales by £570 million over three years.

“Cardiff and Vale Health Board is not making 400 members of staff redundant. Faced with increasing demands against a backdrop of austerity, it is modernising and creating more efficient systems and ways of working.

“As a result of these changes, some staff are being redeployed, some are taking voluntary early release, and where posts are no longer needed, those posts are being removed.

“We are reassured that compulsory redundancy will affect a very small number of staff, as a last resort.”

Camera club tests itself in national competition

BARRY Camera Club took part in the Pixels 2013 at Talbot Green Community Centre, an event which evolved out of the Gwynfa Contemporary Competition.

This year, the event was organised by Gwynfa Camera Club and attracted entries from 36 clubs from around Wales, each submitting four digital images.

Judging was by Gwen and Phil Charnock, both FRPS and MFIAF, who provided an entertaining double act throughout proceedings.

Inn Focus came first with an impressive 78 points out of a possible 80, including three 20s. Host club Gwynfa came second with 75 and Ebbw Vale third with 71.

Barry scored 59.

Rita also suffers from Lupus, a debilitating auto-immune condition.

The burglars took a 42 inch LG TV, Chloe’s TV, an Xbox, along with lots of games including FIFA, GTA, wrestling and Assassin’s Creed, an iPad, a Dell laptop with a silver cover and pink rim, a small seven inch Galaxy pad, a DVD case in brown leather with white stitching, a Kindle, a Superdry coat, and Ugg boots – some of them presents from the family. There were also shoes and a cardigan in the car which was taken.

Rita’s brother John took her to Barry Police Station on Sunday morning to report what had happened.

“The police have been as good as gold and got a forensics team to the house. I’ve also had support from the local PCSO and Victim Support.”

Rita knows that the burglars – she is convinced there were more than one – came through a bathroom window.

Her Citroen Xsara Picasso estate car is beige-gold coloured, registration WVO3 XFJ.

The police have appealed to the public for their help. If anyone has information relating to the burglary, or saw anything overnight on South Walk between 3am and 9am, they should contact the police on 101 or phone Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111 quoting incident 62130346749.

PLATFORMS AND PANELS

TWO new pond dipping platforms and a new information panel have been constructed at Porthkerry Country Park using grant aid and donations of timber.

They have been designed to complement several new ponds constructed in partnership with the Amphibian and Reptile Conservation Trust, and will be used to engage local children in the natural wonders of the pond.

The work has been undertaken by the ranger service with the help of their enthusiastic volunteers.

A three-year research project by the RSPB, published recently, showed that four out of five children in the UK are not adequately ‘connected to nature’.

This study follows a major stock-take of the state of Britain’s nature, published in May, which found that the majority of UK species are declining, and one in three have halved in number in the past five decades. Conservationists linked the decline in wildlife to the disconnection between children and the natural world.

Cabinet member for environment and visible services, Rob Curtis, said: “It’s vitally important to get children interested in nature and these ponds, platforms and panel will be used by schools, community groups and visitors to the park to learn all about the biodiversity of the pond.”

ALF’S ‘VEG ON THE WILD SIDE’

A SITE clearance of my back garden, kindly carried out by my next-door neighbour in July, meant that my son Brian got involved in removing the pile of vegetation and shrub wood.

He happened to look up to the rear of my house and noticed what appeared to be a weed growing from the soil pipe exit from the upstairs toilet.

Thinking nothing of it at the time, it was later observed to be a tomato plant and its progress was photographed in stages, and to everyone’s surprise, the plant flourished and was eventually removed with difficulty due to its awkward position!

It produced a remarkable crop and the plant’s growth and its yield, as of October 10, are seen in the accompanying photo-records.

The crop produced was sweet and tender to the palate!

IF YOU HAVE A DRINK PROBLEM... Then Alcoholics Anonymous offers vital help and support

EXCESSIVE drinking can wreak havoc in the lives of people and the negative effects are manifested in anti-social behaviour, family breakdown, crime and ill-health.

As Alcohol Awareness Week approaches (November 18 to 24) one national organisation is keen to let people know that if they are having a problem with drinking, help is at hand.

Martyn (53) a spokesman for Alcoholics Anonymous, told The GEM the organisation wanted people to know there were local groups ready to help people with issues involving alcohol.

He knows about the negative side of alcohol abuse because he is in recovery himself. He started drinking at a young age and in his words "arrived at adolescence with a great immaturity".

Martyn explained: "I had little money so I became a petty thief, taking anything I could sell to get money to buy drink."

"I loved drinking in the company of other people and the image I had of myself was of me gliding across the dance floor of the down-town discos."

"I took no responsibility for my attitude or behaviour at all, but spent most of my time trying to convince others I was perfectly normal which was what

by TIM CHAPMAN

I wanted to be.

"Alcoholism is a progressive, selfish illness and those closest to me got the worst damage."

"I gradually became ill. My mental health started to suffer and I became isolated and paranoid."

"I got worse as I drank more. My nervous system suffered. In the end I was virtually alone."

"I had lost my career, my family and my home. I lived with a friend, an addict, who had been released from the local lockup ward, and who I left for dead for two and a half days after I found him overdosed."

The Christmas and New Year period was particularly difficult for Martyn because of society's drinking culture.

ROCK BOTTOM

But during one festive season in the early 1990s, he had a change of heart.

"It was Christmas time in 1993 and I was still in deep denial, with no joy at all in my life. I suddenly sat upright and had what can only be described as a moment of clarity."

"I had reached what 'AA' calls rock bottom, a point which I was not prepared to go beyond."

PUPILS TRY OUT NEW PLAYGROUND

MASLIN Park play area has celebrated its official opening, with the pupils from Barry Island Primary School first through the gates to test out the new play equipment.

ment and design company, Wicksteed Leisure, which has been designing and installing playgrounds since 1918, were enlisted to carry out the revamp at Maslin Park.

The park now has a £120,000 play area, complete with a multi-area ball court, after a Vale of Glamorgan Council regeneration project.

The new play equipment will suit all ages from toddlers right through to juniors.

Teenagers are also catered for with the multi-court area, where they will be able to practice basketball and football among other sports. Specialist play equip-

The pupils from Barry Island Primary School have been involved with the park's revamp project from the very start as they helped choose the play equipment and were involved with the overall planning and the design. It was only right then that they should be the first to enjoy the new play facilities – and it certainly lived up to expectations with the buddy board and the pirate ship an instant hit with the youngsters.

Couple praise Barry Hospital

A Llantwit Major couple have contacted The GEM to highlight the excellent care they have received at Barry Hospital in recent weeks.

Horace and Val Eales said they had been very impressed by the staff in all areas of the hospital.

Horace explained: "My wife and I have been receiving treatment over the last six weeks."

"At a time when some hospitals have a poor image, and sometimes it is justified, it is good to be able to say a genuine 'thank you' to all the staff at Barry Hospital for their kindness, attention to detail, cheerfulness and encouragement."

Mr and Mrs Eales said the care and service received from doctors, nurses, tea ladies, and the ambulance men Tony and Matthew, demonstrated real dedication.

A new day for student parliament at Barry Comprehensive School

Thomas, Holly, Marcus and Rhys will be representing the school at the Vale Youth Forum.

ON October 14, the newly-voted form representatives met for the annual student parliament training day.

The point of the student parliament is to allow the school's students a voice in key decisions at the school.

During the day, department meetings were held for the first time, with the new members; roles within their own year's student council were then allocated through a voting session held between them.

Many of the students were very pleased with how things went and how things were organised. Sean Mayor of 11ANB said: "The day was brilliant and fun."

Miss Smith, the new coordinator of the student parliament, said: "The day was outstanding with the majority of form representatives taking a key role in the day's proceedings."

The day went very well: all parliamentary roles were filled and all of the departments were filled to their maximum capacity.

A new initiative this year was the school's involvement in The Vale Youth Forum (VYF).

This is a committee for people who live, work or are educated in the Vale of Glamorgan.

Representatives are between the ages of 11 through to 25. The VYF is for people who care about the community in which they live and want to make changes to improve the community.

The students who now represent the school for the Vale Youth Forum are Holly Proud, Thomas Klee, Marcus Reid and Rhys Powell.

We now look forward to the school parliament's on-going work and to seeing the impact of the Vale Youth Forum.

Autumn lunches at All Saints

AUTUMN lunches are to be held in the church hall of All Saints' Church, Park Road, Barry, every Thursday in November from 12 noon to 1.30pm.

Admission is £5 to include soup, bread, homemade puddings, tea/coffee and a free raffle ticket.

All proceeds will go to parish funds. Everyone is welcome.

SEA SCOUTS' SPECIAL VISIT TO TALL SHIP

RECENTLY, members, leaders, and some parents from the 11th Barry Sea Scout Group were allowed a special visit on board the Tall Ships Youth Trust vessel the Stavros S Niarchos, a 200ft square rig brig.

The Beavers, Cubs, and Scouts had an enjoyable tour around the ship, also learning about the work of the trust. Captain Liam Keating, the ship's captain, ended the visit by formally presenting our Chief Scout with a bronze and silver award.

Special thanks must go to the captain, crew and support team of the trust for making it a memorable visit.

A spokesman said: "The visit was special to the group, as we look to mark our 90th anniversary in May 2014. We would like to make a formal appeal to any ex-members to contact us either by our group website, www.11thbarryscoouts.org.uk or check us out on Facebook - 11th Barry Sea Scout Group.

"Alternatively, why not visit us at the hall during our Christmas fayre on November 16. It opens at 1pm."

DINAS Powys Rotary Club was delighted at its Thursday night club meeting at the Huntsman Restaurant to present Ray Davies of Dinas Powys Football Club with the 'Services to the Community Rotary Award'.

Ray is the junior chairman of the local football club which has over 300 youngsters playing at various levels and he has been involved in the club for over 20 years.

Ray was nominated by past president Ged Crosby and voted for overwhelmingly by club members.

The Rotary club night was also pleased to have as its guest speaker Mr Chris Bleach who gave a very interesting presentation on the life and times of the Cardiff Gas and Coke Company, from the development of the head office on Bute Street to the gas works in Grangetown.

The vote of thanks was given by Rotarian Dougie Curtin.

VALE MP's VIEWPOINT

PM's visit to Wales has put the ball into Labour's court

LAST week the Prime Minister, David Cameron, visited Wales and made several significant announcements.

On Wednesday, he announced that the first NATO summit to be held for a generation in the United Kingdom will take place in Newport.

This is a huge event for the UK and I am delighted that it is being held in Wales.

It will bring world leaders to south Wales for the first time. Never before has a serving US President visited Wales.

The Prime Minister stated that Scotland had the Commonwealth Games, London staged the Olympics, Northern Ireland the G8 and now it is Wales' turn.

This is an excellent announcement and provides an unprecedented opportunity to promote our community globally. Imagine the cost of trying to buy the advertising equivalent to the publicity that we will gain internationally.

The second announcement came to confirm the financing of a new M4 motorway around Newport. This is long overdue and I have been lobbying on this for some time.

I am delighted that the UK government have agreed to a funding mechanism that enables it to become a reality. It will be a huge boost to commuters, businesses and private travellers who are fed up of queuing in traffic jams.

It is a strategic highway that will help the south Wales economy – and beyond.

The third announcement was a response from recommendations of the Silk Commission. Effectively, the Silk Commission, which was set up by the UK Government, concluded that the Welsh Government should be responsible for raising some of the money it spends.

The Welsh Government are always calling for greater spending and this time, the UK government has intervened, enabling it to happen, if they are prepared to take the political risk.

The recommendations are quite obvious as the Welsh Government are always calling for greater spend and David Cameron has now put the ball firmly in their court.

It has significant political consequences and I hope these new powers are used wisely – there will be no looking to Westminster.

It is interesting to note that Scotland accepted some of these powers in 1999, yet have still not used them.

These changes are important for the long term stability for Wales, which I have raised in the House of Commons on several occasions.

These announcements must lead to a settlement that will not require further change for a generation. Such confusing changes over recent years have led to a confused model of accountability. Members of the public find it difficult to understand who is responsible for what.

We need stability and accountability, as it is easy to play the blame game. It needs to be noted that the Labour Party in Wales has used council taxes over the last 12 years to raise additional funds and then lay the responsibility on the local authorities – most of whom at the time were not Labour run!

These announcements will make a strong Wales inside a strong United Kingdom. The Government will put forward a Bill and then it is up to the Welsh Government to trigger the referendum. I hope that Ministers in the Welsh Government see this announcement as being a strong and responsible future for Wales.

Aberthaw's power station is celebrating its 50th year

ABERTHAW
Power Station is celebrating 50 years of generating electricity to power UK homes and businesses.

On October 29, 1963, Aberthaw was officially opened as one of the UK's most efficient coal-fired power stations. Fifty years on, the site, owned by RWE npower, is still going strong and is able to generate enough electricity to meet the needs of more than 1.5 million people.

Employees past and present came together to mark the occasion, with former power station manager Clive Smith, presenting current power station manager Phil Allen, with a brass model of Aberthaw B.

A spokesperson said: "The site of the station was originally a golf course prior to the construction of the Aberthaw A Power Station, which opened in October 1963 and closed in 1995. Aberthaw B Power Station opened in 1971 and has three generating units with a total capacity of 1,500MW.

"The Aberthaw site has produced enough electricity in its life to power the whole of Wales for 20 years.

"Aberthaw Power Station is one of the most efficient coal-fired power stations in the UK and over the past five years we have invested £230 million in environmental technologies to improve our performance."

Phil Allen, Aberthaw Power Station manager, said: "The station has played an important role, not only generating safe and reliable electricity but also in the local community.

"It has employed hundreds of people, enjoyed partnerships with local charities and schools, and has put millions of pounds into the local economy."

Ploughing Society is to support the Ed Evans' cause

THE Vale of Glamorgan & Hedging Society held its committee meeting at the Six Bells Inn last Thursday evening.

The chairman, Andrew Studley, welcomed all those attending and said he was very pleased to see a large number of younger members from the farming community present.

It was reported that the annual ploughing match in Gileston was a great success with well over 25 tractors and ploughs on the field.

Basil George, of the Ferguson Club, thanked the committee and officers for their support in staging the first ever European Ferguson T20 Class competition.

The society will be staging the 2014 ploughing match at Tyn y Cae Farm, Marcross in September. The date will be announced in January 2014.

It was also decided that the annual tractor run from Frank Sutton's yard in St Mary Hill will again take place in support of the Ed Evans Foundation and will be run in April 2014 – date to be confirmed.

The chairman suggested that, as the society is now well established and has now staged four ploughing and hedging events, it is time to think of gathering together a list of those who would be prepared to support the society as members.

The decision was made to run a ploughing day in early 2014, when judges and coaches will be on hand to give instructions and advice to those who would like to take up this craft, or to brush up on the techniques of ploughing.

The chairman ended the meeting by repeating his pleasure at seeing so many young men having an interest in the craft of ploughing.

Anyone interested in any of the events mentioned above, or in becoming a member of the society, should contact the chairman, Andrew Studley on 07980 921990.

Welsh athlete is charity's new ambassador

RHYS WILLIAMS, the European champion and London 2012 Olympian over 400m hurdles, has become the newest patron of World Child Cancer.

Welshman Rhys, son of international rugby player JJ Williams, is currently in pre-season training.

With a busy training schedule and very little spare time, Rhys has said he is still willing to help build awareness and generate support for World Child Cancer.

He spoke with passion about the charity's work: "Every child deserves a chance in life, the chance to live a healthy and happy life. World Child Cancer is doing everything to help children all around the world with cancer.

"I am very proud to be associated with such a charity. If you can help in any way, I would ask you to do so."

Developing a filing system for you

HOW you store your files on your computer is a personal choice to suit your way of working.

Even if you don't value your files and don't care if you lose them, you will eventually need to find them to delete them to make room for other stuff.

Some files might be precious for all sorts of reasons. Either way, it pays to have a system.

At a recent forum meeting I pointed out that any system is OK as long as it works for you.

I noted that an internet search could find numerous ideas, but they all boiled down to a few basic routines that can be applied to build your own personal system.

It is important that you stick to the routines you adopt. The power of a good habit is surprisingly great.

Your naming system should be such that a file's name means something to you.

'DSC0000103.jpg' for a photo file from your camera will not be much use to you in a year or so.

To make it more meaningful you might want to use the date and content as the title.

Change it to, say, 2012-12-18-uncle-bob-as-clown001.jpg for example.

This uses the date as YYYY-MM-DD so that the files will automatically list in date order; no capital letters are used to avoid confusion if an application is case-sensitive; hyphens are used for the same reason as spaces can occasionally cause problems; the trailing number is used if you want to use several pictures of uncle bob taken in the same session.

As the date is in the filename, it will not be changed if the file is modified or copied onto other drives and naming the subject can avoid head-scratching by later generations.

To ease the task of making back-ups of your important files, they could all be stored in one place by telling an application where to put them.

Here's where Microsoft provides a folder named My Documents or Documents.

You might like to rename it to make it more personal, such as Dadsdocs, Mumsdocs or Mikesdocs for multiple users.

Make some sub-folders for any obvious major divisions you will use such as Office, Work, Picture, Letters, Hobbies. You can, in turn, give these sub-folders for each year (or month, week - even day).

Start putting all your new data files into these folders.

If a folder should develop into a long list of files it can, in turn, be sub-divided further.

Break down the list by creating several sub-folders, each dealing with sets of files on related subjects or of the same type and drag and drop the files into folders accordingly.

You should soon see how your system is developing.

Once established, stick with it and enjoy the time you will save by not looking for lost files.

Our next meeting is Tuesday, November 12 at All Saints Lesser Hall, Victoria Square, Penarth, 7.30 to 9.30pm - 'Photo Editing - How to do it, what program to use'. Visitors always welcome. See penarth-computerclub.co.uk.

Musical interlude for the Barry Men's Forum!

THE presenter at the Barry Men's Forum meeting last week, was forum member Clive Sims, who gave an unusual recital of music from all genres.

When he was 10, 68 years ago, his grandmother bought a piano. He was not very enthusiastic at having to learn, until he heard a recital on the radio, which fired his ambition. He gave a very accomplished performance, showing his musical talents on both the piano and keyboard.

Starting with 'The Butterfly' by Grieg, he said it is the only composition he has ever performed which finishes with the bottom note of the piano.

He then spoke about actor Charlie Chaplin, and noted his passion for music, both as musician and composer.

He went on to perform two of Chaplin's compositions, which are still well known today. The first was 'Smile', but better known was Petula Clark's hit, 'This is my Song', followed by 'Eternally'.

Clive played the Beatles' song 'Yesterday', which he said eventually led to their breakup, as on the recording it was attributed to Lennon and McCartney, whereas in fact it was solely written by Paul McCartney.

He gave short renderings of the 'Can Can', and Mantovani's 'Whenever we kiss', 'Lullaby of Birdland', and 'Ain't she sweet'.

Having started with 'Butterfly', he finished the morning with 'The Flight of the Bumble Bee', to a round of applause.

Barry Men's Forum meet every Thursday morning at 10.15am, in the new Trinity Church Hall, Aberystwyth Crescent.

On Thursday November 14, Mr Julian Salisbury will be talking about 'The Himalayas'.

Castle ruins and the beauty of Cwm Cayo for Penarth Ramblers

GERAINT and his sheepdog Patch played host to a group of 12 - and Ruby the excitable spaniel - on a blustery but almost dry day on a recent tour of Ogmere and Southerndown.

Crossing moorland beside the Ogmere estuary to Ogmere Castle they paused for refreshments within the castle ruins which lie just above where the Rivers Ewenny and Ogmere meet.

Then, joining the road opposite the Pelican in Her Piety pub and turning inland, a climb up across Ogmere Down saw them making the undulating journey through the pretty St Brides Major, where the only shower of the day fell before reaching Pitcot Pool with its graceful swans.

Fields led the group gradually downhill through lovely woodland at Pant y Slade towards Dunraven Bay and after enjoying lunch using seats at the Glamorgan Heritage Centre, they made their way down to the coast, where only a few people were at the beach.

A steady climb uphill led them to the open cliff top and by now the prevailing south-westerly wind was hitting them in the face as they joined the coastal path, in order to make the undulating journey back to Ogmere-by-Sea, where the waves were smashing onto the rocky seashore.

The following day, for the 11 walkers who joined Joy on a trip up to Usk, the weather was not so good but although it rained, and heavily at times, their journey through the wet and mud somehow didn't seem that bad, as the temperature remained very humid.

The River Usk was swollen after all the recent rainfall and leaving Usk the group headed past Beech Hill Farm into the beautiful tranquil Cwm Cayo where the brook was beginning to rage down through the valley towards the farm.

After coffee beside the lovely lake hidden amongst the trees, they climbed through green meadows, and muddy tracks to reach the hamlet of Trostre Common where an old carriage track led uphill and further on they were forced to wade through deep surface water.

Fields and sunken lanes led to Gwellog Common and somehow they managed to enjoy a fairly dry lunch before more rain fell as they journeyed back to Cwm Cayo, following autumnal leaved paths through Lady Hill Wood with its glorious beech trees.

After an interesting visit to Usk Castle, now owned by the Humphreys family a short walk back across the old railway bridge led them back to their transport for the journey home.

On November 9, meet 9am at Cogan Leisure Centre for an 8-mile moderate walk at Henllys; contact Rachel on 01446 410545.

The midweek walk, on November 12, will leave Cardiff Central railway station at 9.45am for a 12.5-mile moderate linear walk to Caerphilly returning by train; contact William on 01446 747239.

Programmes and membership advice can be obtained from Pam on 029 2025 5102.

BETTER TOGETHER – New powers for Wales for growth and jobs

THERE have been many steps taken to strengthen the 'powers' of the Welsh Government over the lifetime of the Assembly, which came into being in 1999, when I was elected as the Vale Assembly Member.

As we have always said, these have been 'powers for a purpose' to help us boost growth and jobs with the ability to shape policy to meet Welsh needs and develop laws which can underpin these policies in statute.

The Welsh Government Budget doubled in the first decade but is now being cut back by the UK Government, requiring tougher decisions about our priorities, as we seek to protect health and education, support the vulnerable and boost our economy.

We have been seeking the 'power to borrow' which is now being accorded to the Scottish Government under the Scotland Act. However, local authorities and many other public bodies also have borrowing powers to help finance the projects which are

by Vale AM
JANE HUTT (Minister for Finance and Leader of the House)

vital to local services – such as building schools and improving our local road networks and environment.

Clearly, we need to use this power prudently to borrow money to invest in Wales, in projects like the enhancement of the M4 to tackle the improvements so clearly needed, to boost this key transport network for Wales as part of the UK economy.

This is strongly backed by the business community, led by CBI Wales. We are already assisting local authorities using their borrowing powers for Wales-wide highway improvements and we are developing 'non dividend' financing models to redevelop other capital projects such as Velindre Hospital. Last Friday, I welcomed the news that the UK Government would devolve borrowing powers and smaller taxes such as Stamp Duty Land Tax to Wales, in response to a cross Party Commission led by Paul Silk.

I paid tribute to all the Parties in the Assembly for backing these reforms and for pressing the case for the implementation of these reforms, which we have been united on, since we asked the Welsh Economist, Gerry Holtham, to undertake an independent inquiry into our fiscal powers in 2008.

The First Minister,

Carwyn Jones AM, made a Statement to the Assembly on Tuesday this week to welcome this step forward for Wales. Following his meeting with the Prime Minister and Deputy Prime Minister last week, he said the UK Government's reforms would 'enable the Welsh Government to borrow to fund infrastructure investment.'

I was also glad to have confirmation that the UK Government will legislate to implement these changes as soon as parliamentary time in Westminster allows, with the publication of a draft Wales Bill in the next few months.

I have been negotiating with the Chief Secretary to the Treasury, Danny Alexander MP, over the last three years to secure this historic agreement, which he publicly backed when he came to Wales earlier this year.

We have agreed that this next step in extending our powers can show how Governments can work together to progress devolution in a strong United Kingdom.

It has been pleasing to see how we can work together with the strong voice of Business and Civic Society backing us, showing that we are 'Better Together' in seeking the common good.

CROWN COURT ROUND-UP by AJ SICLUNA

Pencoeed man is jailed for smuggling

A FORMER bankrupt who committed offences involving smuggled cigarettes and fake watches has been jailed for eight months at Cardiff Crown Court.

It was necessary, said Judge David Wynn Morgan, to impose condign punishments, "Not least because you have offended in this way in the past."

Ian Freeman (50) of Heol Maes-y-Haf, Pencoeed, admitted charges of dealing with goods with fraudulent intent and making unauthorised use of a trademark.

Prosecutor Carys Owen said that on January 8, officers of the Revenue and Customs saw two men in the North Road area of Bridgend, one of whom was Freeman.

They searched a van and found 25 boxes of cigarettes. Thirteen boxes contained cigarettes totalling £31,800 on which duty of £25,006 had not been paid.

Trading Standards officers were called in and discovered 235 fake watches with a fraudulent trademark of 'ICE'. All were seized by Trading Standards officers.

When arrested, Freeman exercised his right to remain silent, but he later said he had been offered £200 for a unit he occupied to store the goods.

Said Miss Owen: "All this was professionally planned."

Freeman said he could not say how the cigarettes and watches came into his possession.

He was said to have a previous conviction for evading tobacco duty.

His barrister, Peter Woodall, said: "This is, of course, a serious case. Sadly, he is physically frail with diabetes and alcohol issues."

"His remorse is heart-felt, and he has brought shame to his family. It was not a sophisticated operation and he was acting as a warehouseman and gave way to temptation at a time of dire financial straits."

He said Freeman had been approached by another person whose identity he would not reveal because there would be "repercussions".

The judge said Freeman had been taken advantage of because of difficult circumstances and he had taken a course of action to shield others.

The offences, he added, had been compounded by his reluctance to reveal who the others were.

He was ordered to pay a victim surcharge of £100.

Rugby player's last chance

A PORTHCRAWL RFC player who when drunk attacked a member of the club's committee, has walked free from Cardiff Crown Court.

Daniel Shore, a 30-year-old labourer, was told by Recorder Ian Murphy QC: "Your qualities have saved you."

Shore, of Ewenny Close, Porthcawl, had admitted causing David Long actual bodily harm.

He was jailed for six months, the sentence suspended for two years, and made subject to a two-year supervision order.

He was also directed to carry out 150 hours unpaid work and to pay a victim surcharge of £80.

Said the Recorder: "It you let alcohol get the better of you again, there will be consequences."

Prosecutor Ian Kolvin said that on August 31, there was a social event at the rugby club. Shore was a regular member and was well-known and liked.

He became intoxicated and when asked to leave, he refused. Without any provocation, he head-butted Mr Long to the jaw area and punched another man.

He was held in a bear hug and taken to the exit, but he was again unwilling to leave and threw a punch to Mr Long's face which knocked him to the floor unconscious.

After being arrested, he could not explain why the incident occurred.

Mr Long, the court heard, had not wished to pursue the case against Shore.

Shore was said to have convictions for causing actual bodily harm, one of which involved attacking a man he believed had stolen his bicycle.

His counsel, Owen Williams, said: "He realises he is at risk of losing his liberty. Every time he commits an offence, it is because he has lost his temper."

"These failings need to be addressed. He is truly remorseful because at the time, he was getting his life in order."

Mr Williams said he had drunk far too much alcohol following an away game in Neath.

Shore, he said, was welcome to return to the club to play and coach and he deserved a last chance.

LUCKY WINNER'S HAMPER PRIZE

Mr and Mrs Rob Evans receiving their hamper from Nigel Hunt.

THE Vale of Glamorgan Farmers' Market ran a free hamper prize draw at the Cowbridge Food and Drink festival, and the lucky winner was Rob Evans from Ystradowen.

The hamper was presented by market vice-chairman Nigel Hunt, of Quality Welsh Plants, at the Farmers' Market on Saturday, November 2.

The next market will be at Arthur John's car park on Saturday, November 16.

Housing advice service receives praise for progress

THE Vale Council's housing advice service won high praise for the improvements it has made in the last 12 months, and also its successful partnership working during its first members' briefing session.

The event was held to brief local members on what the Housing Advice Service and its key partners have achieved in the last year.

Independent housing consultant Andy Gale said: "If there was an award for the most improved service in Wales, the Vale of Glamorgan would undoubtedly receive this."

"The Vale has the potential to be one of the best housing advice services in Wales".

Mark Lawrence from Shelter Cymru also gave a talk to the members at which he discussed the excellent working relationship forged between the council and Shelter Cymru.

NFU members meet Police Commissioner

A DELEGATION from Glamorgan NFU Cymru county branch recently met Alun Michael, the Police and Crime Commissioner for South Wales, and highlighted the impact crimes such as fly grazing, fly tipping and theft have on rural communities.

The delegation stressed the need for all parties to work in partnership in order to prevent fly grazing in the area.

Andrew Edwards, NFU Cymru Glamorgan County Chairman said: "NFU Cymru has welcomed the legislation which has been drafted to tackle fly grazing and the abandonment of horses and ponies in Wales, which has been laid before the National Assembly for Wales by the Welsh Government."

NFU Cymru has successfully worked in partnership with Welsh Government, local authorities, police forces and the RSPCA to try and develop legislation to tackle fly grazing that will empower local authorities to take action against the small minority of horse owners who choose to act irresponsibly.

Mr Edwards continued: "Unfortunately, some farmers in Glamorgan have been victims of fly grazing and it is absolutely vital now that there is a uniform approach and commitment from all local authorities and police throughout the county of Glamorgan, and the rest of Wales, to tackle this problem."

Mr Edwards concluded: "This was a useful opportunity to meet and discuss our concerns directly with Mr Michael. During the meeting, we also stressed the importance of local police officers keeping the rural community up to date with thefts and incidents, and we hope to see an improvement in the level of communication between local officers and farmers in the future."

Top award for MIND volunteer

Award winner Gillian Morgan is honoured by the Vale of Glamorgan Mayor and the Vale AM, for her skills and service to Mind in the Vale.

CARDIFF and Vale College recently awarded Gillian Morgan the 'Community Learner of the Year' award at a ceremony on the stage of the Wales Millennium Centre.

The Vale of Glamorgan Mayor, Cou Margaret Wilkinson and Vale AM Jane Hutt visited Gillian Morgan in the MIND in the Vale Travellers Café in Barry Station, where she has been a volunteer for five years, to congratulate her on the award.

Gillian gained her QCF Hospitality Level 1 Award for her services at the Mind in the Vale Cafe, which also runs a successful catering service.

Ty Hafan rollover reaches £10,500

TY HAFAN'S Crackerjackpot Lottery has reached a massive £10,500 for the second time this year because the rollover prize has not been won for the past 21 weeks.

It could reach a maximum of £12,000 where it will become a guaranteed prize.

By becoming a member of Crackerjackpot for £1 a week, supporters have the chance to win big prizes which could fund a dream holiday, a new car and or maybe some improvements.

John Mladenovic, Ty Hafan's Lottery general manager, said: "Winning £10,500 could make a real difference to someone's life and we hope it will attract more local people to support us by playing the lottery.

"As well as being in with a chance of winning big cash prizes, every member of Crackerjackpot makes a real difference to hundreds of life-limited children, young people and their families from across Wales supported by Ty Hafan. Crackerjackpot provides a vital source of reliable income for Ty Hafan, raising around a third of the total amount needed every year."

Back in 1998, the hospice began its own lottery and since that time it has paid out more than £1.5 million to lucky winners from all over Wales who have chosen to support Ty Hafan in this way.

DON'T FALL FOR BOGUS 'GREEN DEAL ASSESSORS'

SOUTH Wales residents are being urged to be on their guard with cold callers who claim to be 'Green Deal assessors'.

It follows reports from across Wales of people being 'ripped off' on their doorsteps by bogus Green Deal assessors.

In some cases, homeowners have paid as much as £200 to cold callers who have taken their money and disappeared.

Ken Yorston of Trading Standards said: "Some companies have clearly seen the Green Deal as an opportunity to conduct their shady practices in a government approved arena and Trading Standards will be taking action against any such business found to be misleading consumers or not complying fully with their statutory obligations."

RHOOSE IS READY TO REMEMBER... Parade will honour those in past and current conflicts

IAM pleased to advise everyone that the Rhooose Remembrance Day Parade and Service will take place on Sunday, November 10 with the service taking place at the Rhooose Community Hall, Stewart Road, Rhooose.

It is hoped that the usual local organisations and individuals will support the parade and service and that they will bear their standards with pride.

Serving and retired Servicemen are particularly welcome and as always we will have seats reserved at the front of the hall.

It would be helpful if all the individuals and organisations would make the usual arrangements to muster in Wesley Avenue by no later than 10.30am so the parade can march off promptly at 10.40am.

Those who do not wish to join the parade can go straight to the community hall.

As well as remembering those who fought and fell in the two World Wars we will also remember that there are brave young men and women serving this country in Afghanistan and in other conflicts and peacekeeping missions around the world.

In 1943, just 70 years ago, this country was still in grave danger of running out of key supplies owing to the U Boat activity in the North Atlantic resulting in the loss of many Royal Navy and Merchant Navy seamen.

The RAF was taking the fight to the enemy and also attacking the U Boat bases but with significant losses.

Our Eighth Army was making good progress and captured Tripoli in January and then in September they landed in Italy.

Guy Gibson led the brave attack by RAF Lancaster bombers from 617 Squadron on the dams in the Ruhr Valley on May 16 - 17.

In recognition of such bravery past and present it would be most appropriate, therefore, for us to have good turnout in the parade and at the service.

I am pleased to advise that the Reverend Melanie Prince will be leading the service with representatives of other denominations offering prayers.

The Women's Institute (Rhooose Branch) has kindly offered to provide some light refreshments to all those attending at the end of the service.

For any further information please contact me at home on 01446 710690.

Perkins.

RECENTLY, an evening's entertainment in memory of Mrs Barbara Perkins was held at Cottrell Park Golf Club.

The evening included an auction, which was very well supported by guests, friends and family members alike. All of the items were snapped up. The rest of the evening was enjoyed by all on the dance floor.

A total of £7,530 was raised and the family of Mrs Perkins would like to say a big thank you to the kind people who donated the auction pieces and to those who bid for them.

Also, thank you to the friends and family members who helped run the event and to Anthony who organised it.

The fund raised were donated to the Marie Curie Hospice.

'Great Gatsby' on screen in Dinas Powys

THE next showing at the Murchfield Hall Community Cinema is the 2013 film adaptation of The Great Gatsby.

The film starts in 1929 when Nick Carraway is asked to write about what turned him into an alcoholic and the circumstances leading to his depression.

Nick tells of his experiences with the flamboyant millionaire Jay Gatsby and the lavish lifestyle and opulent parties that ultimately led to madness and tragedy.

Bring your own champagne, wine or cocktails and join us for this magnificent film experience.

A free glass of peach bellini for everyone from our champagne fountain and delicious mocktails from the bar.

Saturday, November 9 at the Murchfield Community Centre, Dinas Powys.

Tickets are £4 in advance and £5 on the door available from both Post Offices in the village and DPVC office at the Community Centre.

Doors open 7pm.

'Heroes' team heads for its £20,000 target

ABOVE: The team in Brize Norton just before the beginning of the ride to the Vale.

THE GEM recently told the story of four RAF Servicemen who were part of a Help for Heroes charity ride from Oxfordshire to the Vale of Glamorgan.

They have other events planned and their aim is to raise £20,000. For Barry Serviceman, Joe McCann, a team member, returning to south Wales was particularly emotional.

He managed to take his colleagues to the Arms Park and show them a photograph of his late father who played rugby for Cardiff RFC.

Joe has been in touch with The GEM to say: "I'd just like to say thank The GEM on behalf of the Help for Heroes riding team for the support you have given us over the past month or so."

"It's been hugely appreciated. We're at £9,000 now and closing in on the £20,000 target. "I'll keep GEM readers informed of how we're getting on with fundraising over the next few weeks."

ON Oct 22 Cadoxton (Barry) WI held a charity coffee morning courtesy of the Vale Mayor Coun Margaret Wilkinson.

The morning was well attended and people went home with lots of goodies from the various stalls.

The charity was in aid of Cadoxton Primary Nurture Project.

After, the president of the WI thanked the mayor and her colleagues for the help given, enabling the branch to have a successful event.

The headmistress from Cadoxton Primary Mrs Janet Haywood said a few words about the ongoing project, and gave thanks to the WI. The event raised £353 which will be passed on to the School.

Regional AM joins Welsh Guards' walk

Andrew RT Davies AM and Jane Hutt AM before the event with day sponsors Arqiva and other walkers.

REGIONAL AM, Andrew RT Davies, has taken part in a relay around the Welsh coast to raise money for service veterans.

He walked from Southerndown to Nash Point, alongside veterans and supporters of the Welsh Guards.

He said: "I was extremely proud to have taken part in such a fitting tribute to the Welsh Guards and to have helped to raise money for service veterans.

"To have the opportunity to join the team for a leg of the journey was a wonderful experience and I thoroughly enjoyed talking to some of the amazingly fit and dedicated people who managed to do the entire journey and hear some of their stories!

"The Welsh Guards are an inspiration to us all and this was a great way to get the whole country involved and show our appreciation for veterans.

"Obviously I know the Vale coast extremely well as a local resident and farmer but this was a challenging walk for all involved given the wet and windy conditions!"

Beguiling Beagles hunting for Beagle-friendly homes!

DOGS Trust Bridgend is appealing to local dog lovers to help find loving homes for three beguiling Beagles.

The trio - Ralphie, Tonka and Bindy - are hunting for energetic owners who will enjoy training these clever dogs and give them the time they need to help them settle in.

The charity has found that Beagles are one of the most sought-after breeds - the number of enquiries has increased tenfold at the Bridgend rehoming centre in the past year.

Beagles may become the latest 'must-have' because of their appealing looks and new owners are often unprepared and ill-equipped to cope with the specific requirements of this energetic and sometimes mischievous breed.

"Many end up in rescue centres, although with the right training, these intelligent dogs can make loving and entertaining pets," says Beverly Price, Dogs Trust Bridgend, Rehoming Centre manager.

"Beagles are super cute little dogs which make very appealing pets. However, people need to remember that they are hounds, they love being outside chasing scents and are highly intelligent and very energetic dogs and need regular exercise. They need the correct socialization and proper training.

"They can be escape artists due to their very keen sense of smell and can pick up the faintest trace of the scent of food and pursue it. However, their love of food helps with training and in the right homes with owners who have time to dedicate to their training and keeping them entertained they can make fantastic pets.

"Over the last few months alone, we have taken in 10 Beagles. Some have been handed in because their owners did not appreciate the demands of such energetic dogs. We have also seen a large increase in the number of Beagles attending our training classes.

"Beagles are really fun, affectionate dogs which make such rewarding pets in homes where owners understand their breed, give them plenty of exercise and allow them to be Beagles."

If you can give a Beagle suitable home please call Dogs Trust Bridgend on 01656 725 219 or visit www.dogstrust.org.uk.

Tonka

TONKA is a one year old Beagle who loves to be part of the action. An energetic pup, he is always outdoors exploring and enjoys munching on his favourite meaty treats. This busy boy could happily live with other dogs.

Bindy

BINDY the Beagle is eight years old and is good with children and happy in the company of other dogs, this bright girl would make a loving companion for an energetic family.

Ralphie

RALPHIE is a one year old Beagle who is always active so would need lots of exercise and stimulation to keep him busy. A sociable pup, he has lots of doggy friends.

Samantha was in the frame for top apprentice

A YOUNG female plumber from Bridgend was a finalist in a competition to name Wales' best building services engineering apprentice.

Samantha Allen (26) who works for Bridgend-based Andrew Allen Gas and Plumbing Ltd, was a finalist in the JTL Welsh Apprentice of the Year Awards, which recognise excellence in building services engineering apprentices. She was nominated for the award for her achievements during her apprenticeship, which finished in May of this year.

Samantha said: "This is a great way of ending my final year as an apprentice, and I hope other girls will see this as proof of what can be achieved by taking up this sort of apprenticeship."

JTL Chairman Dr Ian Livsey said: "Samantha is a great example of the talent being developed in Wales, and I have no doubt she has an excellent career ahead of her. She has always had great feedback from her tutors and training officers, and is playing a key part in our Apprentice Ambassador Initiative - helping us to encourage young women into careers in building services engineering."

Llanilltud Primary School celebrates Diwali

PUPILS at Llanilltud Fawr primary school recently celebrated Diwali, the Hindu festival of light. As you can see from the pictures here, a wonderful time was had by all, especially the Indian dancing with Mrs Booker!

Two local women are jailed for street attack

TWO women who robbed a drinker shortly after she left a pub in Bridgend have each been jailed for three years at Cardiff Crown Court.

Judith Harle suffered injuries which included a broken thumb, bruising and grazes.

Sara Baldwin (33) of Maes-yr-Heol, Brynmyn, and Kirsty Hodgson (23) of Bryn Morfa, Bridgend, each admitted a charge of robbery.

Judge Eleri Rees told the pair: "Nothing excuses what happened that night."

by AJ SICLUNA

The victim, she said, must have suffered a "truly frightening experience".

Prosecutor John Probert said that on the night of May 5, Ms Harle and the two defendants were drinking in the Star pub in Bridgend.

Ms Harle had had a relationship in the past with Baldwin's ex-partner and Baldwin called Ms Harle a "slag and a slut".

About midnight, Ms Harle left the pub to walk home, feeling uncomfortable at the situation.

The two defendants rushed after her, leaving their drinks behind.

In Mackworth Street, said Mr Probert, they ran towards her and Hodgson pulled her hair and punched her. She was dragged to the ground and her handbag was taken from her.

She was kicked and curled up into a ball.

Hodgson told her:

"You got what you deserved, you bitch."

Judith Harle returned to the town centre and reported the matter to the police.

In addition to the bruising and grazing and broken thumb, she also had swellings and bit the end of her tongue.

The pair were arrested in the early hours of the morning in the same pub.

Baldwin said: "I haven't robbed any b, you'll never prove it."

The bag was found in undergrowth near Hodgson's home address and £33 in cash had been taken.

Baldwin claimed that earlier the victim had given her "stinking looks". Hodgson also denied being involved.

Mr Probert said: "Clearly, Ms Harle was targeted."

In a victim impact statement, she said she suffered a lot of pain, was not sleeping, suffered stress, and had to be off work.

She also said she felt "really angry" and wanted ed the pair to pay for what they had done to her.

Baldwin had convictions for public order offences and assault, and Hodgson had convictions for a public order offence, causing damage and battery.

Adam Sharpe for Baldwin said: "The offence was entirely out of character. She had been in custody since October 4 but has reflected on her behaviour."

"It was an assault which spiralled out of control."

"In the past she had suffered depression, has been sectioned and self-harmed. She has had a troubled life and there is remorse."

He said that in August, she was attacked and suffered fractures to her jaw.

Stephen Thomas for Hodgson said: "She fully admits her part in a joint offence. When they left the pub, they did not intend to commit a robbery and it all occurred on the spur of the moment."

"It must be acknowledged there was kicking and significant force. The robbery was inexcusable."

The judge said there was clearly hostility towards the victim.

Each defendant was ordered to pay a victim surcharge of £120.

AM's surgery

DAVID MELDING, Conservative AM for the South Wales Central region, will be holding an advice surgery on Friday, November 15 at 29 High Street, Barry, between 10am and 12pm. No appointment is necessary.

PENDOYLAN'S ENTREPRENEURS

PUPILS in Pendoylan Church in Wales Primary School recently held their first 'Enterprise Week'.

The children were tasked with designing and producing products to sell at a school Farmer's Market.

To begin with, the pupils conducted some market research to find out what their parents and friends would want to buy, and how much they'd be willing to spend.

To help the pupils get started, the school invited a local businessman, Mr Howells, to give a presentation on how to launch a new product.

The children used his excellent advice to help them choose suitable products to make and sell. The budding CEOs even calculated their expected profits and designed their own packaging!

On trading day, with

the year-6 pupils manning the stalls, business was brisk and the products sold quickly. By the end of the morning the pupils had made over £600 profit; Sir Alan Sugar would have been proud!

Museum remembers our troops

OUR Armed Forces serving in hot spots around the world is the theme of the latest exhibit at the Barry Island-based Glamorgan Wartime Heritage Centre.

Featuring a 'soldier' dressed in desert uniform worn in action in Afghanistan, the display aims to remind visitors of the dangers faced by our troops 'over there'.

Barry at War spokesman Ade Pitman said: "Our display aims to remind visitors that our troops are currently serving our country on peace keeping duties around the world."

"As an ex-serviceman myself, I believe that it is important to remember the sacrifices being made by our Armed Forces, not just at this time of year when we buy a poppy, but every day."

"The title of our exhibit reflects the changing location of 'over there': be this Iraq during the Gulf Wars or now Afghanistan. For my mother, 'over there' was Egypt during the Suez crisis of the 1950s, so who knows where 'over there' will be 10 years from now?"

"Using funds raised at the Wartime Weekend community event last summer, we have been able to buy a suitable mannequin and build a generic desert dwelling that could be equally at home in Iraq, Afghanistan or Syria. The uniform was donated by the son of one of our volunteers, who wore it on one of his tours of duty in Afghanistan."

"We would very much like readers to help us improve the impact of our display, by donating photographs of their loved ones 'over there'."

"We don't need the originals, as these can either be emailed to us or we can scan the originals. For security reasons photographs should simply have the name of the serving member and a goodwill message to them on it."

"Our tiny museum seeks to show the personal side of warfare, and how it touches the lives of the people at home. Photos can be emailed to us at our email enquiries@barry-atwar.info or dropped off at the museum."

The Glamorgan Wartime Heritage Centre is located at the Barry Tourist Railway Station, Barry Island, and is open every Wednesday afternoon, 2pm until 4pm. The museum will also be open on Sunday, November 24, when it celebrates its first anniversary.

For more details call Ade Pitman on 07930 874161 or see the website www.wartimeglam.org.uk.

Royal Albert Hall duties for local MGSs

MEMBERS of the Ministry of Defence Guard Service (MGS), based at MoD St Athan, will be taking part in the annual Service of Remembrance at the Royal Albert Hall this coming Saturday, November 9.

The two representatives from St Athan are Civilian Security Officers, Mrs Jean White from Barry and Mr Kenneth Kirkham from Pencoed.

They were invited to take part in the National Act of Remembrance and be the first MGS personnel to walk down the steps of the Royal Albert Hall.

MoD St Athan Commanding Officer, Wing Commander Rob Balls said: "I know that both Mrs White and Mr Kirkham were overwhelmed to be selected as the first MGS personnel to attend the Royal Albert Hall. They will be joining the nation as we remember those who made the ultimate sacrifice for their country."

Service and civilian personnel from MoD St Athan will join local communities across south Wales this Sunday as they take part in services to remember the fallen.

Out and About with The GEM

Marvel's latest big blockbuster lacking in story and villainy

MANY hundreds of millions of dollars later, it seems hard to believe that the release of Thor in 2011 was considered a gamble, given his lack of high-profile.

Fast-forward to 2013 and his second outing, following a successful appearance in Avengers Assemble, is one that comes with much anticipation.

In Thor: The Dark World, the lead character (Chris Hemsworth) returns to Asgard only to find it war-torn, threatened by an evil so great that Thor cannot battle it alone.

In order to battle the dark elves and their leader Malekith (Christopher Eccleston), Thor must turn to his less-than-trustworthy brother Loki (Tom Hiddleston), a decision that could mean dangerous times for our hero...

While Marvel Studios have shown a knack for making money and delivering thrills, the one thing they are reasonably untested in is sequels.

While their characters' first outings have been wildly successful, the only character to have reached sequel status is Iron Man, and the second episode of that, albeit undemandingly entertaining, was let down by a dull storyline and an unengaging villain.

A similar charge can be levelled at Thor: The Dark World which similarly makes for an entertaining and enjoyable viewing experience, but one soured by a story that doesn't pull you in and a villain who is bland and reasonably unthreatening.

What made the first film so entertaining was the ability to marry the dramatic with a sense of humour, the 'fish-out-of-water' concept allied to an almost Shakespearean family drama.

What the sequel does is dial down the former (although there are some laughs to be had) and instead focus on Thor battling a race of people intent on making him and Asgard pay for the sins of his grandfather.

It is a mix that doesn't quite work, mainly due to the fact that the main driving force of the story, a mystical 'aether' that grants those in charge of it immense power, is a flimsy hook on which to hang a story.

Similarly, Christopher Eccleston's Malekith is a villain with a grudge but lacking in character and personality. With the actor hiding behind prosthetics, there are little or no facial actions to convey the character's motivations; instead we merely have threats which have been recycled from any number of past villains which don't work half as well as a little more substance would have done.

While these are points to be critical about, there are also things to savour about the film. Chris Hemsworth is becoming a more accomplished and assured actor with every performance, and while this film won't overly stretch him, he still conveys the weight of a man born to lead but who would rather fight.

Tom Hiddleston is again the film's ace in the hole, giving Loki the snide, devious and calculating aura that works so well, while Natalie Portman finds herself underused and Anthony Hopkins delivers a performance that feels even so slightly phoned in.

Game of Thrones director Alan Taylor brings a sheen of realism to the world of Asgard, his more grounded direction perfectly suitable for a film that follows the traditional sequel path of going a bit darker, while the set-pieces, though heavy on CGI, have a scope and ambition that, coupled with a dollop of derring-do, give a thrilling air to proceedings.

While something of a wasted opportunity, Thor: The Dark World still delivers enough to satisfy; it's just a shame that it's saddled with a weak story and poor villain. However, the Marvel is enough to carry it through.

VERDICT: Another case of sequel-itis from Marvel factor, Thor: The Dark World is a notch below their top work but still makes for an entertaining viewing experience. While the film's story leaves something to be desired, and has a villain that fails to send chills down your spine, the sense of spectacle and some decent performances from Chris Hemsworth and Tom Hiddleston make it worth watching. Enjoyable.

'Edging the Estuary' - a written journey through the Vale

PETER Finch's Edging the Estuary (published by Seren at £9.99) takes the reader on a journey stopping at St Donat's, Ogmere by Sea, Newton, Porthcawl, Aberthaw Power Station, Sully Island, Barry Island, and many other places which will be familiar to Glamorgan GEM readers.

A poet, author and literary entrepreneur, Peter is well known for his alternative guide books.

Of Merthyr Mawr he writes: "It's easy to see how this place doubled as Saudi for the making of David Lean's Lawrence of Arabia."

While we learn that Sully "took its name from the Norman Baron, Reginald de Sully, one of the 12 knights of Glamorgan, who was awarded the manor at the time of the conquest."

He takes in villages and cities, power stations and fishermen, castles and caravans, leg aching walks and deckchairs on the beach, exploring both busy tourist attractions and secret havens along the coast.

The competing pleasure beaches of Porthcawl, Barry and Weston-super-Mare are just some of the places which punctuate Peter's epic walk.

Celebrating
Anniversary

Pupils and parents vote with their feet and head for Porthcawl!

As it celebrates its 80th anniversary, big things are happening at Porthcawl Comprehensive School. In this article, headteacher Andrew Slade reflects on the reasons that more and more pupils are choosing the school.

AS part of the run up to the school's anniversary, our Humanities Club started researching the school's 80-year history.

Looking through the old registers, we were struck by the variety of previous schools listed; pupils came from Porthcawl town and from many primary schools in the surrounding district.

This September has seen a very large intake into our year-7, with 240 pupils joining our school. What is quite remarkable is that following in the school's tradition, pupils from 25 different primary schools have decided that Porthcawl Comprehensive School is the place for their secondary education.

Over the years, the school has grown from the red brick buildings that opened in 1933, (now called P Block), to a much larger school, spread over a very large and well maintained site.

In March 1973, the Upper School was opened, and this area now comprises D and G Block. In the last 16 years, we have seen a new staff room, a theatre, a block of new classrooms for mathematics and geography, the sixth form hall – and most recently refurbished science laboratories.

This year, record numbers of students have either returned to school following their GCSE results, or joined our sixth form from other schools.

To accommodate a sixth form of almost 400, we have redeveloped the Adult Education Lounge into the 'Sixth Form Centre'.

Thanks go to Mr Parker (the site manager) and his team for all their efforts during the conversion.

The school became a comprehensive school at the beginning of the 1970s. We recognise at Porthcawl how vitally important a child's education is to succeed in an ever-changing and challenging world.

We are proud to continue to use the school's name – Porthcawl Comprehensive School – as we feel that education at our school is truly comprehensive in the best sense of the word, with something for everyone at the school, no matter what their ability, interest and aspirations.

We continue to be delighted with examination results; the summer of 2013 brought a range of excellent results.

At A-Level, the pass rate at A* to E was 98.55 per cent, while at A* to C, it was a very creditable 81.84 per cent.

At GCSE Level 1 Threshold (5 or more GCSE passes at A*–G), the school hit 96.20.

At Level 2 Threshold (5 or more GCSEs A*–C) the figure was 78.90 per cent. The Level 2 Threshold (Including English and Maths) score was 69.93.

The core subject indicator (English, Maths, Science) was 67.20 per cent, and there were no pupils leaving without qualifications.

We are looking to increase our library of memorabilia tracing the history of the school. If you are able to help, for example with old photographs, please contact the school on 01656 774100.

For more information about the school, (as it is today), please see our website www.porthcawlschool.co.uk

KAREN PAULLADA – Eliza Doolittle
You might remember Karen as Fanny Brice from last year's school production of 'Funny Girl'. Karen is a member of the National Youth Theatre of Wales and the National Youth Music Theatre when she played Megan in 'Roadrunner' in the Edinburgh Festival. Karen has appeared in numerous school productions and has taken principal roles in all the lower school productions, and took her first principal role in the main school show when she was 14. (She even finds time for singing lessons with Patricia O'Neil.)

This item is from the school's programme for the 1998 production of My Fair Lady. Karen is currently appearing in the Sky comedy-drama series, Stella (see article below).

The school show – a dazzling tradition at Porthcawl

BACK in the 1980s I was living in Cardiff, while my parents lived in Porthcawl, writes PHILIP IRWIN.

Sometimes, over Sunday lunch, my father would wax lyrical about the quality of the shows put on by Porthcawl Comprehensive School.

I took it all with a pinch of salt, of course. After all, if he had said that he had seen Rob Brydon and Ruth Jones on stage together, it wouldn't have meant anything at the time.

Don't forget, this was all 'pre-Glee' and years away from the recent explosion in interest in the performing arts.

Roger Burnell, the school's drama teacher at the time, was blazing a trail and starting a tradition that continues to this day.

It was back in 2001 that I returned to Porthcawl and saw my first school production as The GEM's reporter. It was The King and I – and I haven't missed one since!

Highlights? I remember a great version of Gypsy, when the school was brimming with talent.
There were two girls strong enough to play the key role of Rose (Amy Combes and Ria Morell) and another two girls who were ideal for the role of Gypsy (Gemma Gould and Becky John).

Leigh Coggins, who has appeared in a recent Les Miserables production alongside Gareth
Gates, was in the chorus.

Among the boys in the cast were Garnon Davies (Hollyoaks) and regular acting work; Michael Conway (three years in

Jersey Boys in the West End), Ashley Hunt who has been getting regular acting work ever since leaving college, Nicky Phillips, now a master in musical theatre at the Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama, Dan
Parker, who went on to do excellent work for the Bridgend Youth Theatre – and Joe Smith, now a drama teacher at the school!

Truth be told, reading past programmes will always unearth talented performers who have moved on to success in theatre or TV.

Another old boy is Matthew Gravelle (recently the killer in Broadchurch), and an old girl is Karen Paullada – now on TV in Ruth Jones' Stella, playing the brassy Nadine.

In her day in Porthcawl, she played the lead role in My Fair Lady, Funny Girl, and Sound of Music.

Over the years there have been many more fine shows. I have seen two excellent versions of Les Mis, the most recent featuring Joe Wiltshire-Smith, who wowed the audience as Jean Valjean, and he has gone on to do great work in Fiddler on the Roof and in Jesus Christ Superstar.

However, the Porthcawl shows were never about superstars.
Every show I have seen has depended on team work and a whole range of skills – on stage, in the orchestra pit, and behind the scenes.

School shows are ultimately all about developing personal confidence and a whole raft of life skills, and if anyone out there doubts the truth of that – then come along to next year's show!

The debt we owe our Merchant Navy...

THE First World War finally ended on November 11, 1918, after four long years of fighting.

The guns stopped on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month.

November 11 was chosen back in 1919 as the special day each year when we would all think about and remember those who had died.

To this day, almost 100 years later, at 11am on November 11 many people across Britain stay silent for two minutes to think about those who were lost.

At first, November 11 was known as Armistice Day because 'armistice' is the word used for an agreement between enemies to stop fighting.

These days it is more usually called Remembrance Day or Poppy Day.

The sacrifice of the Merchant Navy has remained a hidden chapter in our history.

Tens of thousands of merchant seamen, fishermen and crews from tankers, some involved in minesweeping duties to help keep our sea lanes open, lost their lives during both World Wars.

We owe them a great debt. Without their efforts this country would have run out of food.

We would not have supplied our army. The raw materials needed to keep the aircraft flying would not have arrived. We would have been overrun.

SS Athenia

In 1999, after years of lobbying, the Merchant Navy was finally allowed to take part at the National Remembrance Ceremony at the Cenotaph in Whitehall, some 60 years after the first Merchant vessel the Athenia was lost in World War Two.

The SS Athenia, of the Donaldson Line was torpedoed by the enemy submarine U30 within hours of war being declared, killing 93 passengers and 19 of the crew (mainly men trapped deep down in the engine rooms).

The Merchant Navy personnel were considered civilians and not "under command".

For the first time, in the year 2000, Merchant Navy Veterans marched behind the Royal Navy in Column E and the Merchant Navy wreath was proudly laid at the Cenotaph.

The wreath, with its unique MN design, joined the 'Red Duster' which had been displayed at the Cenotaph since the memorial was dedicated.

So when remembering our Armed Forces, just for a moment also remember the unarmed forces and the many from Barry and the Vale who played such a vital part in both wars. After years of being overlooked, Merchant Navy personnel during the Year of the Convoy (2013) are also being granted further recognition for their great sacrifices in the course of duty.

October-related World War Two ships and local men lost :

The tanker British General was en route from the Tyne for Abadan when she was torpedoed by U-37 and sunk on October 6, 1940.

The crew of 47 was reported missing, including local man Henry Mason.

On October 10, 1940 the SS Graigwen a cargo steamer on route from Montreal for Barry was torpedoed by German submarine U-123 and sunk.

Seven of her crew including Ronald J Ponsford were lost from a total of 34.

On October 18, 1940 the SS Fiscus in convoy SC-7, was torpedoed and was sunk East of Rockall by U-99.

The master, 36 crew members including locals William Bradford, Clifford Roy Hopkins and Gethyn W Richards, and one gunner, were lost.

Two days later the cargo steamer SS Whitford Point on route from Baltimore to London in Convoy HX-79 was torpedoed by German submarine U-47 and sunk 90 miles SW of Rockall. Local men Ali Kassim, John H Conibear, Thomas Hillberg and John Edward Young were among the 37 crew lost from a total crew of 39.

On October 21, 1941, the cargo steamer Teverybyn when en route from Pwll to Cardiff, was torpedoed and sunk by German submarine U-82.

The vessel was in Convoy SL-89. A crew of 48 was presumed lost including local men Henry Edwards and Edward Paul Lewis.

Also, on October 21, the armed British cargo MV King Malcolm was last reported, and never heard of again.

She had a crew of 34 and four gunners.

It has been recorded that the King Malcolm was hit by torpedo and sank in 30 seconds.

Apparently this ship went down before it could radio an alarm.

Local men lost were George D Ashton, George Henry Cliff, Patrick Cullen, Gordon Illtyd Down, Matis Jacobson, Albert E V Manning, Ernest A Petersen, Juan Rufo and Jan Snyder.

The Rose Schiaffino was torpedoed by the U-Boat 374 on October 31, 1941.

The master, 36 crew members including locals Ahmed Mohamed, Thomas Baston, Klaas De Wit, Daniel Cadogan, Karl Eugen Eriksen, John Foley, William Henry James, Ahmed Jheai, Terence Lewis, Nagi Mohamed, Joseph Norton, Jose Ocampos, Jose Pires, Maelgwyn Richardson, Arthur Robertson, Mocabil Salem, Charles Burman Stiff, Emanuel Teuma and four gunners were lost.

The SS Pennington Court, a straggler from a convoy, was torpedoed by U-254 and sank south-east of Cape Farewell on October 9, 1942 with the loss of all on board including local man William E Pratt.

The unescorted SS Agapenor was hit by two torpedoes from U-87 about 180 miles south of Freetown on October 11, 1942, and sank after being hit aft by another torpedo.

Seven crew members were lost including local man Ivor Victor King.

On October 12, 1942, U-706 fired a torpedo at the SS Stormest west of Ireland and observed a hit under the aft mast.

The ship was a straggler from convoy

The master, 37 crew members including local men Anton Andersen, James T Edwards, Edward Fellows, Sidney Flynn, Clifford K R Gurd, Barrie Higgins, Frederick B John, Thomas Owen Lamb, William G Poulsen, Idris G Pritchard, William H Robinson, William Arthur Weeks, Charles G Williams, and ten gunners, were lost.

The Norwegian steamer Lysland and the British steamer George Balfour were torpedoed.

The burning Lysland was towed into the Humber. George Balfour broke into parts during the towing and ran aground.

Local men lost during the SS George Balfour action were James Gronhaug and Harry Mawson.

On October 29, 1942, the SS Bullmouth was torpedoed and damaged by U-409 about 100 miles NW of Madeira and became a straggler.

She was later struck by a further two torpedoes from U-659 and sank.

The master, 44 crew members including local men John T Howells and Arthur G Hutton and five unknown DEMS gunners were lost.

On the same day the SS Barrwhin in convoy HX-212 was hit by one torpedo from U-436 and sank quickly south of Iceland.

Local men lost were Bosun Peter Antman and Chief Steward Martin Benedict Preiera, husband of Rose Gertrude Preiera of Cadoxton.

On October 4, 1943 the British steamship Fort Fitzgerald, was bombed by German Do-217 aircraft and sank NW of Cape Tenes.

The sinking saw the loss of local man Ahmed Nagi, aged 42.

*"They shall grow not old,
As we that are left grow old;
Age shall not weary them,
Nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun
And in the morning,
We will remember them."*

FORMER CHIEF FIRE OFFICER BERT REACHES 100

BERT PREECE, who for many years was the chief fire officer for Barry, Penarth, Cowbridge and Llantwit Major, is celebrating his 100th birthday on November 10.

He joined the old Auxiliary Fire Service in 1938 and on the outbreak of war was called up to Barry fire station, being seconded to Swansea during the wartime blitz.

Having risen through the ranks during the war, he became station officer for Barry and the Vale on its cessation. He served Barry and the Vale for many years before being promoted to divisional officer based in Bridgend, a position he held until his retirement in 1972.

He was married to his beloved Rene for 73 years until her death last year at the age of 97.

He is still active and likes nothing better than going out for a weekly meal with his sons to the Colcot Arms in Barry.

For his birthday celebration he will be joined by his children, his grandchildren, his great grandchildren and his great-great grandchildren at a restaurant in Cardiff.

Could Hypnotherapy be the solution for your child?

Like adults, children can suffer emotional or psychological/cognitive problems from time to time.

Growing up can be difficult with all the new challenges life can bring. Sometimes children cannot cope with the emotions generated resulting in them being "bottled up" leading to unhelpful thought patterns which can cause anxiety and stress, exacerbating conditions such as asthma; eczema; behavioural problems and unwanted habits.

Local hypnotherapist, Sue Pitman practises Solution Focused hypnotherapy helping children suffering such as low confidence/self esteem; sleep disorders; bed wetting; phobias; exam nerves. Studies show children (7 to 17) respond positively to hypnosis and talking therapy which Sue combines with cognitive behavioural therapy and NLP techniques, focusing on the child's solution.

Will Aid – no better time to get a Will done

IMAGINE you've lived with your partner for 20 years in his house. You've never married and you have no children. Your partner dies suddenly and hasn't made a will. After the funeral his family, who you haven't seen for years, ask you to leave the house.

Can they do that? The answer is, probably, yes.

The concept of a 'common law wife' doesn't exist in law and a co-habitee has no automatic right to inherit her partner's estate or deal with his assets and personal possessions.

Where there isn't a will rigid statutory rules come into effect known as 'the intestacy rules'.

These rules lay down the order in which family members are entitled to the grant of probate. They also specify who can inherit. Unmarried partners are not included in the list.

Of course, the co-habitee may have other rights (an Inheritance Act claim or rights to an equitable interest in the property) but these will cost time and money to assert which could have been avoided had a simple will been drafted.

We regularly see situations where the small cost of making a will could have saved money later. A common situation arises where a parent has several children from different relationships and doesn't make a will.

If there is no spouse the children are entitled to the grant and in general terms the rule is 'first come first served'.

It won't be any surprise to know that a row frequently breaks out as to who should be in charge. This messy situation can be avoided if the parent takes a few minutes to decide who he or she wants to inherit and executes a valid will.

Even if a will is made, if it isn't done properly it may be invalid. Homemade wills can be a big problem. A technical flaw or uncertain wording or even the crossing out of names and gifts can make a will invalid or worse, partially invalid.

If you are among the 60 per cent of the population who haven't yet made a will, there has never been a better time to do it.

For the whole month of November, you can make a simple will with firms of solicitors who sponsor Will Aid.

For one month, Hutton's will waive its fee and invite clients to make a donation to Will Aid. Will Aid was founded 25 years ago and over the years we are proud to have helped raise over £13.6 million for causes such as the Red Cross, Action Aid, the NSPCC and many other charities.

WHAT DO YOU DO WITH YOUR OLD DIRECTORIES?

NOVEMBER is usually the time the new directories for 2014 will start to land on doorsteps, which sometimes leaves people with the quandary as to what to do with their old ones.

The Vale Council's cabinet member for the environment and visible services, Coun Rob Curtis, said: "Please add them to your kerbside collection to be recycled."

"It doesn't even matter if the directory is a mixed material – that is a hard-backed card cover and paper pages, pop them in your blue co-mingled bag or ideally at the base of your green box (we ask for it to be at the bottom, to try and preserve the paper quality should it rain).

"Our teams will do the rest; feasibly your 2013 information could be recycled and turned into something different you will be reading in 2014!"

Help to Buy 2 comes to Wales!

IF you've been thinking of moving home but are struggling to find a large enough deposit, help may be at hand!

A Government-backed scheme, Help to Buy: Mortgage Guarantee (also known as Help to Buy 2), should mean that more high loan-to-value mortgages become available to would-be borrowers – and the good news is this scheme is available to borrowers in Wales.

For the borrower, the new mortgages will work just like any normal house loan, but at loans-to-value between 80 and 95 per cent.

This means that the borrower may only have to find a five per cent deposit.

The new mortgages will be available for both home movers and first time buyers, subject to certain restrictions.

While the scheme may help borrowers to move onto or up the property ladder, it is important to note that borrowers remain fully responsible for their mortgage payments and any shortfall in the normal way, and they will be subject to lenders' normal checks on your eligibility for the new scheme.

For independent mortgage advice, contact CBK Wales on 0300 303 8525 or email info@cbkwales.co.uk.

Gladstone pupils help make world a brighter place

ON Friday October 4, Gladstone Primary School celebrated their harvest festival in their usual caring, sharing way.

Children from years 2 to 6 sang, danced and performed to the rest of the school in a service of thanksgiving.

Proudly on display were a multitude of household items, clothes, books and toys donated by parents and friends of Gladstone all ready to be boxed and sent off to Track 2000 – a charity committed to serving those in need in the local community.

At the end of the assembly, Track 2000 came to collect the items. It took over 50 children from year-5 to help carry everything to the van and the driver, Glyn, said that he had never seen his van so full in nine years.

The year-5 children then sang 'We are the World' as the van drove off – and the words 'It's true we'll make a brighter day, just you and me' have never been so poignant.

Teacher and organiser Sarah Creasey enthused: "Team Gladstone have done it again. The children performed so beautifully, which is a credit to the fantastic staff and our parents gave as generously as ever. The looks on the faces of the Track 2000 staff said it all!"

JENNER PARK PUPILS' WOODLAND EXHIBITION

Some of the children with their exhibition.

AS part of a Cornerstones 'Wild Wood' topic, year-4 pupils in Jenner Park Primary have been busy working towards an art exhibition in Porthkerry Forest Lodge.

The children started learning all about the inhabitants of the local woodland with a visit to Porthkerry Park in September. Since then, the children have created robust 3D models of woodland creatures using wire and mod roc.

Also, children wrote poetry and reports based on woodland creatures.

On Friday October 25, children invited their families and friends to come and see their work laid out in an exhibition in the lodge.

A school spokesman said: "It has been a huge success and children's work will remain on display in the lodge for the foreseeable future, to inspire our community."

Dinas Powys runs DIY drop-in session on LDP

THERE is outrage that the Vale Council has failed to organise a public event in Dinas Powys regarding the Local Development Plan (LDP).

Therefore the local community councillors have organised a drop-in session for residents to air their views on Saturday, November 16 at the Murchfield Hall, Sunnycroft Lane from 10am to 12 noon.

The latest proposals for the St Cyres annexe site by the Vale Council changes the land designation from housing to mixed use.

This means that the site would be allocated for housing and community use. The number of houses proposed is 300.

Land off Caerleon Road will see an increase in the proposed number of houses. The latest figure is 75 houses.

In both instances, access would be via the Murch Road/Cardiff Road junction.

However the document gives no indication how this junction could cope with extra traffic.

The issue of dealing with traffic from the site remains vague with the draft plan stating that "a suitable safe access is required" and that a "full and comprehensive Scoping Study" should be agreed. Nor is there any reference to the by-pass.

In reality, there is no detail about transport and how the local roads and the main Cardiff Road will cope with the additional traffic.

There are two new sites, one at Ardwyn the former children's home off Penyturmpike and 50 properties at Cross Common Road opposite Hebron Hall.

Here a new junction would be required with the main road.

The final result, if all this is agreed, is there will be an increase in housing, up from 400 to 440.

However the major issue of public transport and extra vehicles heading to Cardiff and Barry has been glossed over and must be addressed first.

How the poppy became a symbol of Remembrance...

IT'S that time of year when we begin to notice that there are poppies for sale almost everywhere we look and we put our hands in our pockets and place our contribution in the collecting box and pin a poppy emblem to our jackets and coats.

Have you ever thought about why we follow this custom? Yes, I know it's our way of supporting the Royal British Legion's annual appeal, but why a poppy, and what do they do with the money?

The first of these symbols of Remembrance went on sale in November 1921, but it might surprise readers to know that it wasn't actually a British idea. It's one of those things that wasn't thought up by any single person but evolved from the actions of three people – a Canadian medical officer, an American YMCA worker and a French lady.

On May 3, 1915, after presiding over the funeral of a friend and fellow soldier who died in the Second Battle of Ypres, the Canadian medical officer, a Lieutenant Colonel John McCrae, was inspired to write a poem.

McCrae, appalled by the carnage he saw, performed the burial service himself, at which time he noted how poppies quickly grew around the graves of those who died.

The next day, he composed the poem while sitting in the back of an ambulance. According to legend, fellow soldiers retrieved the poem after McCrae, initially unsatisfied with his work, discarded it. 'In Flanders Fields' was first published on December 8 of that year in the London-based magazine Punch.

*In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly Scarce heard amid the guns below.*

*We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.*

*Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.*

It is one of the most popular and most quoted poems from the war. However, the idea of the poppy as a symbol of Remembrance then moved to the USA.

The idea for the Flanders Fields Memorial Poppy came to Moina Michael while she was working at the YMCA Overseas War Secretaries headquarters, on a Saturday morning in November 1918, two days before the Armistice was declared at 11 o'clock on November 11.

At about 10.30am, when everyone was on duty elsewhere, Moina found a few moments to read a magazine. In it she came across a page that carried a vivid colour illustration for the poem 'We Shall Not Sleep' (later named 'In Flanders Fields') written by the Canadian Army doctor, John McCrae.

Reading the poem on this occasion, she had read it several times before. Moina was transfixed by the last verse – 'To you from failing hands we throw the torch; be yours to hold it high. If ye break faith with us who die, we shall not sleep, though poppies grow in Flanders Fields.'

At that moment Moina Michael made a personal pledge to 'keep the faith' and vowed always to wear a red poppy of Flanders Fields as a sign of Remembrance and as an emblem for 'keeping the faith with all who died'. She then wrote these words in reply.

*Oh! you who sleep in Flanders Fields,
Sleep sweet – to rise anew!
We caught the torch you threw
And holding high, we keep the Faith
With all who died.*

*We cherish, too, the poppy red
That grows on fields where valour led;
It seems to signal to the skies
That blood of heroes never dies,
But lends a lustre to the red
Of the flower that blooms above the dead
In Flanders Fields.*

*And now the Torch and Poppy Red
We wear in honor of our dead.
Fear not that ye have died for naught;
We'll teach the lesson that ye wrought
In Flanders Fields. In Flanders Fields we fought.*

She distributed silk poppies to her friends and campaigned to have it adopted as an official symbol of Remembrance by the American Legion.

The French lady now enters the story. Madame Guerin, who attended the 1920 convention of the American Legion, supported Moina Michael's proposal and was herself inspired to sell poppies in her native France, to raise money for the war's orphans.

In 1921, Madame Guerin sent poppy sellers to London ahead of Armistice Day, attracting the attention of Field Marshal Douglas Haig. A co-founder of the Royal British Legion, Haig supported and encouraged the sale.

The practice quickly spread throughout the British empire and became the official symbol of Remembrance. The sale and wearing of poppies in the days leading up to Remembrance Day, helps to raise the funds needed to support Servicemen and women who have been injured in the service of our country and dependants of those who gave their lives.

Amongst other support programmes the Defence Recovery Capability programme delivers coordinated recovery support for currently serving personnel who are wounded, injured or sick.

In conjunction with the Ministry of Defence and other Service charities, the Legion is helping to fund Personnel Recovery Centres and the Battle Back centre as part of this programme, to help individuals recover and either return to duty, or to re-skill and, with support, move successfully into civilian life.

These programmes alone are costing millions of pounds to support. Financial support is also being given to help fund the Combat Stress organisation which deals with an ever increasing number of servicemen suffering from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder.

As operations in Afghanistan start to wind down, and the troops start to come home, there are many who will think that the support which the Legion gives will also wind down.

In fact, there will be a need to support the many who have returned with life-changing injuries for many years to come.

The Poppy will remain as an essential means of ensuring that the sacrifice of those who have given their country life or limb will not only be remembered, but given the support that they both need and deserve.

WELSH PEOPLE HAVE LAID DOWN THEIR LIVES ACROSS THE WORLD IN PURSUIT OF FREEDOM

THE year 2014 sees the start of the centenary events to commemorate the Great War and I am honoured to sit on several Welsh Government committees advising our government as to the most appropriate way of remembering all those who served in that conflict.

We will take this opportunity to give events here in Wales a unique identity and to look at parts of the war other than the ones traditionally referred to: the first day of the Somme, Passchendaele et al (dreadful though these battles were).

It is important to realise there was sacrifice in other parts of the world too.

The coming years should give us all a chance to look again at our view of Wales's involvement in the Great War and to consider areas that have become a little lost in the mists of time.

This will allow us to refocus our attention, whether it be the 2015 tribute to the first major action of the Welsh Guards at Loos; the 2016 commemoration of the momentous battle for Mametz Wood, involving the other three Welsh regiments; the 2017 recollection of the life and death of the poet Hedd Wyn; the Welsh airmen who flew with the Royal Flying Corps; the sailors who served in the Pacific and the Atlantic; the efforts of the peace movements to end the war; the role of women in the support services or in the armaments factories; the miners and factory workers who provided the material for the three services or the merchant seamen who risked their lives to keep raw materials and food flowing into the country.

All deserve our respect and our thanks.

We should also remember that Welsh men and women served and laid down their lives in theatres across the world, from the Western Front to China, from East Africa to Mesopotamia and a whole host of other areas.

They served on land, at sea and in the air and, sadly, many never came home to the land of their birth.

Over the next few years there will be national events and many thousands of hours of television programmes recalling the sacrifice made by our forebears, but the most poignant events will be those that occur at local levels, where communities throughout Wales will pay their own respects to former inhabitants of their cities, towns and villages who paid the ultimate price for the policies of national governments. This is where true remembrance will take place.

There will, rightly, be many one-off events over the next five years which will unite the nation in its gratitude, but it is the ceremonies that go on year after year on Remembrance Sunday which I would like to highlight in this piece.

This coming Sunday people will attend services at local memorials and in local places of worship, whatever the weather, as they do each year, and will continue to do so even after the hubris of the next few years has passed, to remember the dead who gave their lives in the cause of freedom.

There is one casualty of the Great War to whom I should like to pay tribute this year.

Private Samuel Gordon Moore was just 19 when he was killed on October 15, 1918 – less than a month before the war would end.

A chaplain wrote to his parents at 4 Tydfil Street, Barry Dock: "His company were storming a wood which the enemy stubbornly held, and Moore, at the forefront of the fight with no cover whatever, remained at his gun until it was red hot, firing round after round into the enemy forces.

"This example of soul bravery rallied the others and at the most critical moment – and there is no doubt that had he been spared, he would have received high decoration – but at the summit of his success, when this brave boy had achieved an almost superhuman act, he was hit with a bullet and died instantly."

Samuel was serving with the 2nd Battalion of the South Wales Borderers. To illustrate that he will not be forgotten, in October 2018 the inhabitants of the village of Gulleghem, near Ypres in Belgium, where he fell, will be holding a special ceremony to remember the sacrifice that Samuel and his fellow soldiers made on that day – a remarkable tribute.

Samuel is also listed on Barry's Roll of Honour inside the Memorial Hall.

Because it is important that young people understand the significance of Remembrance Sunday, students from my school, St Cyres, will be laying wreaths at services in Barry, Penarth and Dinas Powys over the coming days to show their determination to ensure that the names of the fallen will never be forgotten.

I have recently set up two Facebook sites – 'Barry and WW1' and 'Barry and WW2' – and invite readers to share on these sites their memories of the roles their relatives played in the two terrible conflicts of the last century so that we can all ensure that they will always be remembered.

'All Age' service at All Saints

THE monthly 'All Age' service at All Saints Church, Penarth, on October 27 attracted the usual large congregation.

We were delighted to welcome once again members of 12th Penarth Brownie Pack, who enjoyed assisting with the collection and serving refreshments after the service.

This month's theme was the story Jesus told of the Good Samaritan, and what it teaches us about loving our neighbour.

The story was told through an 'instant drama' using volunteers from the congregation, and the address was given by Reader Jennifer Hardye.

Prayers were led by members of the youth group, and the service included the usual mix of traditional hymns and contemporary worship songs.

The next All Age service will be on Sunday, November 24 at 10am – all are welcome.

MEL GRIFFIN

'SHOULDN'T COUNCIL FOLLOW ED'S LEAD?

IT is great to see that Ed Miliband plans to give firms paying the Living Wage a tax break of up to £1,000 for every worker they help.

This would certainly help workers to get out of the cycle of low wages and poverty.

It is just a great pity that his Leader of the Vale Council does not make the same pledge and support taking our own council workers out of low pay.

Of course, he is saying exactly the same as the Tories did about the minimum wage, that it would cost jobs and services, and therefore I must question his Socialist credentials.

VALE MP TABLES 10-MINUTE RULE BILL

YESTERDAY in Parliament (Wednesday) Vale MP Alun Cairns tabled a new law to help combat nuisance telephone calls.

The law, which is part of a series of measures aimed at tackling the problem will allow people to identify callers before answering and make it easier to complain when the opt-out facility has been breached.

Mr Cairns explained that in order to make a complaint about a nuisance call, the marketing company need to be identified. However, most withhold their telephone numbers.

The new law will force all non-domestic telephone callers to display their number. This will also allow local residents to decide whether to answer the telephone or not.

Alun Cairns' 10 Minute Rule Bill will empower OFCOM to manage a database for those organisations that require their number to remain anonymous, such as the police or domestic violence charities.

Mr Cairns commented: "I have received many complaints by constituents who have been plagued by nuisance calls. It has been almost impossible to complain about these calls without knowing the telephone number of the caller.

"This Bill will make it easier to complain and will empower constituents to choose whether they want to answer the phone or not. It will also provide more evidence to the regulators to fine those companies that are breaching the Telephone Preference Service code."

The Vale MP added: "When caller ID was first introduced all numbers were displayed. Now, most organisations withhold it – including Parliament. It is right and fair that charities such as Women's Aid or the police are able to withhold their numbers, but that should be the exception rather than the rule."

This Bill follows the recent launch of a report by the All Parliamentary Party Group (APPG) on Nuisance Calls, co-chaired by Alun Cairns MP, which listed 16 recommendations to combat nuisance calls.

Vale of Glamorgan Local Development Plan 2011- 2026

The Vale of Glamorgan Council has prepared Local Development Plan (LDP) documents for the above Plan. The LDP will, upon adoption, replace the current Development Plan and form the basis for decisions on land use planning for the Vale of Glamorgan.

The LDP documents include the 'Deposit LDP', the Sustainability Appraisal Report (which incorporates the Environmental Report), and an Initial Consultation Report together with other supporting documents.

The 6 week consultation period will commence on Friday 8th November 2013 and will end at 5pm on Friday 20th December 2013.

All documents are available for inspection on the Council's website at: www.valeofglamorgan.gov.uk/ldp. Hard copies are also available for public inspection free of charge during normal opening hours at the following locations:

- Vale of Glamorgan Council, Civic Offices, Holton Road, Barry, CF63 4RU
- Vale of Glamorgan Council, Dock Office, Barry Docks, Barry, CF63 4RT
- Vale of Glamorgan Council, Alps Depot, Quarry Road, Wenvoe, CF5 6AA
- All Vale of Glamorgan Libraries.

In addition there will be a number of public exhibitions within the Vale of Glamorgan, the dates, times and locations of which can be found on the Council's web site or by telephoning 01446 700111.

Representations (including objections) in respect of the Deposit LDP can be made :-

ONLINE – By completing the electronic form at www.valeofglamorgan.gov.uk/ldp

BY EMAIL – In writing (preferably using the Representation Form) to ldp@valeofglamorgan.gov.uk

BY POST - In writing (preferably using the Representation Form) and sending to: The LDP Team, Vale of Glamorgan Council, Dock Office, Barry Docks, Barry, CF63 4RT

Representations must be received no later than 5pm on Friday 20th December 2013.

Representations (including those taking the form of objections) should specify the matters to which they relate. Objections should also specify the change sought, the grounds on which they are made and the test(s) of soundness to which they relate (see below).

A form for making representations and guidance notes are available from the above address or on-line at www.valeofglamorgan.gov.uk/ldp.

The Authority's Feedback Mechanism.

The Deposit LDP will be considered by an independent Inspector who will assess whether it is 'sound'. There are a number of tests of soundness and these can be found on the form for making representations or at www.valeofglamorgan.gov.uk/ldp. Objections to the Deposit LDP should make reference to these tests wherever possible.

Any representation proposing a new or extended site for development or one that proposes to incorporate a site rejected by the Authority should include information on the site's compatibility with the Plan's sustainability appraisal and community involvement.

The Authority has prepared guidance on the work required by the proponent for alternative sites presented in response to this consultation, and has made the Authority's baseline data and assessment methodology available on its website. An alternative site which has not been subject to sustainability appraisal is unlikely to be considered suitable for allocation in the Plan by the Inspector.

Representations may also be accompanied by a request to be notified at a specified address of the next stage of the LDP and/or that the LDP has been submitted to the Welsh Government for independent examination and/or of the adoption of the Plan.

The Local Planning Authority cannot change the Plan at this stage but it can decide whether it is in favour of any changes proposed. Representations made in accordance with this notice (i.e. 'duly made') will be considered by an independent Inspector appointed to examine the soundness of the Plan.

Only those making representations seeking to change the Deposit LDP (i.e. objectors) whose representations were 'duly made' have the right to appear before and be heard by the Inspector at the Examination. (Section 64 (6) of the 2004 Act.)

Further information is available from the Council's website at www.valeofglamorgan.gov.uk/ldp or by contacting the LDP Team at the Vale of Glamorgan Council, Dock Office, Barry Docks, Barry, CF63 4RT, by phone on 01446 700111, or by email at ldp@valeofglamorgan.gov.uk.

At risk groups get flu jabs free

VALE AM, Jane Hutt, has pointed out the benefits of having a flu jab at a local chemist.

She said: "It is very convenient to have a flu jab in one of the many community pharmacies doing flu jabs this year."

"It means there is no need to block up busy GPs' surgeries and the availability of chemists in high streets is really helpful with many open at times convenient for people in work or out shopping on weekends. I encourage everyone to get a flu jab – and mine did not hurt a bit!"

Matthew Jones, a development manager with the Co-operative Pharmacy, said: "The flu vaccination is the most effective way of preventing seasonal flu and every time you head out to work this winter, you run the risk of catching it, so it is really important to protect yourself."

The three Barry pharmacies delivering NHS flu jabs free of charge for people in at risk groups are Boots and Co-operative in Holton Road, and Petersen's in Park Crescent. Appointments are not needed.

Cowbridge Senior Citizens' latest events

OUR trip to Brecon included a canal boat ride.

The October trip was a tremendous success because we were so fortunate to have a gloriously sunny day for our trip.

We arrived in time for coffee and a look around the town before our mid-day trip on the canal.

The autumn colours on the towpath's hedges as we drifted along were wonderful to see.

Refreshments were served on the boat – just to sustain us until we had a late lunch in Brecon.

Our next outing is a shopping trip to Bath, always a popular venue.

On November 12, leaving Geoffrey Ashe bus stop at 8:50am and the Town Hall at 9am.

The cost will be £15, but it will be reduced if we have a sufficient number of passengers to cover costs.

All are welcome, not restricted to members only, please contact me on 01446 775508 or Patricia Prothero on 01446 775097 to reserve seats.

Pay on the coach, so please bring change with you!

Our October meeting had a very interesting speaker, Mr Tony Bennett on 'Achievement in Later Life'.

It was very informative and helpful to all who came, and we are not restricted to only seniors in our meetings, all age groups are welcome.

Our meeting (in the Lesser Hall) will be on November 14 at 2pm, when we are delighted to have John Weavers, a keen local cyclist, to be our speaker.

We will also be taking final reservations for our Christmas lunch on December 19, at St Athan Golf Club (transport has been arranged).

Menus will be available for choices and a deposit of £5 per head will be needed in that meeting.

All are welcome to join us at any of our activities, but it is hoped that members' Christmas meals will have a subsidy (which I am currently negotiating!).

Please come to our next meeting to reserve your meal and pay the deposit, if possible, or ring me (01446 775508) to reserve a place.

THE Cowbridge Festival of Food and Drink celebrated 10 successful years, and there were plenty of smiling faces as visitors and locals toured the stalls and tried out free samples.

The festival continued its mix of stall holders from far and wide, together with plenty of local enterprises.

ABOVE: Vale AM Jane Hutt paid a visit to the Twinning Association stall.

There was plenty of fun in the Entertainment Zone.

All square in love and war for hockey teams

PENARTH Hockey Club's two sides ended week five of the new Davis Wood Hockey League season sharing the spoils with their opponents as the First and Second XIs drew with Lansdown and Abergavenny respectively.

THOMAS IS NO TURKEY – but he gets the bird!

THE Seaview Lads have persevered with fishing in spite of small bags being the norm of late.

Shore fishing has been mixed but largely slow, with few fish being weighed in. Pout, dogs and small eels, along with a few rays, have shown, but we have not seen the range or quantity of species we would have hoped for at this time of year.

Thomas Williams won the latest boat competition and bagged a turkey for his efforts aboard the Benjoma Two on Saturday, October 12. Strong winds with a bit of east in them made for difficult conditions and tough fishing.

Some nice fish were caught, however, including a 15lb blonde for Paddy Spence and a double figure smoothhound for Peter Roderick.

Russ the Huss also caught a nice double figure blonde. Paddy, a guest, didn't win the turkey, that went to Thomas for a good conger estimated by Paul the skipper at 14lb.

Many of the lads are leaving on the Tenerife trip where we hope to catch a wide range of specimens – if nothing else we should all catch a few (sun) rays. Tony will be missed but his memory will travel with us.

JC

One week on from the crushing defeat at the hands of Lydney, the 1st XI travelled to Gloucestershire side Lansdown knowing they needed a good result to get the season back on track.

Lansdown started the stronger of the two teams and controlled the first ten minutes as Penarth found it difficult to get out of their own half.

However, despite being under pressure, the visitors managed to thwart the Lansdown chances, with veteran goalkeeper Mark Harris in particularly good form.

After the initial assaults on their goal, Penarth began to settle into the game, with the midfield trio of skipper Mark Thomas, Tom Harran and Chris Baker gradually seizing control of the middle of the pitch.

With some clinical passing, the gaps started to appear for the Vale side, and it wasn't long before Baker waltzed past three or four Lansdown defenders to slot the ball in the bottom right corner.

With Penarth now feeling confident, they pressed high up the pitch, looking to get another goal, but, while knocking the ball around nicely in the opposition 25, the visitors lost possession. Breaking quickly, Lansdown produced some of their own slick direct passing and didn't give the Seaside's defence a chance as their young centre-forward scored a very good equaliser.

Stung by the setback, Penarth looked to re-establish the lead heading into the interval. With full-backs Dave Stevens and Gareth Herman high up the pitch and pressing the Lansdown defence, the visitors won the ball on the edge of the D and, firing it into the area, a cute deflection from Matt Birch left youngster Sam Wooding in space to slot the ball past the 'keeper for a 2-1 scoreline.

Despite leading at half-time, Penarth knew that they would still have to work hard to gain all three points, but the second period started badly as the Welsh outfit conceded another sloppy goal.

With the score at 2-2, however, Penarth played some of the best hockey they have played all season, with Richard Baker starting to see a lot of the ball wide on the right, and Sam Docherty and James Davies looking in control at the back.

The pressure told as another direct run into the

'D' by Chris Baker earned Penarth a penalty corner and, with a good injection from Tom Harran, skipper Thomas smashed the ball passed the sprawling Lansdown 'keeper.

Buoyed by their success, Penarth again pressed the home defence, and earned further reward when the ball fell to stalwart Phil Lane, who placed it carefully into the corner to extend the advantage to 4-2.

With a two-goal cushion, the Vale side really should have seen the game out and brought three points back over the Bridge but, with tired legs and some sloppy defending, they allowed Lansdown back into the fight, and two late scores gave the hosts a share of the spoils at 4-4.

After an opening sequence of results that had alternated wins and losses, the Second XI had reason for optimism as they hosted Abergavenny at Barry Sports Centre, but knew that the opposition – who sat above them in the table could not be underestimated.

True to form, it was the visitors who started strongest, dominating early possession and forcing Penarth onto the back foot as they controlled the middle of the park and produced a series of shooting opportunities.

The Vale side somehow withstood the onslaught until a freak moment saw a seemingly harmless ball from outside the 'D' caught by the strong wind and blown onto 'keeper Calum Grant's pads before ricocheting into the back of the net.

Despite the setback, Penarth refused to buckle and, turning their attention to an improved short passing game, gradually began to edge towards parity in terms of possession.

Several chances were created, particularly down the right thanks to the combination of Richard Clarkson and Ian Smith, but once again went begging. Grant, meanwhile, was twice called upon to make crucial saves as the hosts managed to keep the deficit to a single goal at halftime.

Buoyed by their improved form, Penarth continued to exchange blows in the opening minutes of the second period, but still relied heavily on the rear-guard action from defensive quartet of Smith, Paul Roberts, Craig Llewellyn and Graeme Jones, as well as Grant's reflexes between the sticks.

Despite losing stand-in skipper Rob Harrison to a blow on the head, the home side held firm into the final five minutes but appeared destined not to score, a frustration exemplified by Dave Watkins pulling up with a hamstring injury when through on the Abergavenny goal.

However, with the umpires already checking their watches, a hopeful long ball from the back found its way to Tom Davies on the right, and his run into the visitors' 'D' resulted in a melee that saw Arthur Jones force the ball over the line, claiming his first goal for the club as he pulled Penarth level.

The final couple of minutes saw the home defence again resisting pressure, but the clock eventually ran out on Abergavenny as the two sides shared the spoils.

This weekend sees a double dose of Cardiff Medics for the two Penarth sides, with the 1st XI playing host to mid-table opposition in Barry, while the Seconds travel to Llys Tal-y-Bont to the Medics' table-topping 'A' side.

Penarth Hockey Club always welcomes new, old and returning players, umpires, supporters, friends and helpers regardless of age and ability.

Training takes place on the artificial turf at Barry Sport Centre every Wednesday, with the juniors in action between 6-7pm and seniors between 7-8pm.

Injury hit Phoenix face Blaenau Gwent

FORTUNATELY a sheltered Kay Field, Crumlin was the venue for this National League Division 1 match between Blaenau Gwent ladies and Pencoed Phoenix in autumnal surroundings.

Nevertheless, this brought little comfort to a Phoenix squad battling against an unprecedented injury list, and meeting a much changed Blaenau Gwent combination from the team defeated by 29 points to 10 some five weeks ago.

With the home side dominating possession in the opening half Phoenix players who did well were Hannah Brunskill at the lineout, Leanne Burnell, Amy Stevens (who was later forced from the field of play with what looked like another bad injury), and Jade Mullen in spasmodic Phoenix attacks, with Mullen free from Army activities putting in a number of big defensive hits!

The home side had used their possession well throughout the half with full back Weybrow getting two of their three first half tries.

Blaenau continued on the attack at the start of the second half and Phoenix full back Lauren Aitken did well to stop a home back row forward on the charge metres from her own line, before again popping up to clear her lines with a good 30 metre touch find.

Phoenix hit back with a superb try, blindside wing Burnell splitting the home midfield before the supporting Mel Clay put Mullen in possession and the centre raced away from 35 metres to score out wide.

Unfortunately for Phoenix they were to lose their own lineout in their 22 and with their defensive alignment caught out by this, conceded a fourth try. Phoenix then enjoyed their best period of the match with Becca Pope, Stevens, and Clay handling to almost work Burnell in at the corner flag.

Aitken then reduced the Blaenau lead with a brilliant solo effort from some 75 metres, initially retrieving a kick, before counter attacking and outpacing several home defenders down the left hand touchline for arguably the try of the match.

Phoenix captain Lowri Reeves, Katie Murphy and Natalie O'Shea were as competitive in the contact area as ever; however, with the loss of Murphy and Stevens to injury, Phoenix were unable to hold the strong finishing Blaenau side and succumbed to a final scoreline of 39-10.

Young Osprey second row Charlotte Mundy and flanker Debra Evans were also competitive throughout for Phoenix.

Phoenix now have a break from league fixtures for regional rugby, and hopefully the regional aspirants within the squad will do well, and experience better luck with injury than of late.

Dinas RFC sit on top of the league

AFTER last week's SWALEC Bowl game, attention returned to league action as Dinas Powis set off, albeit a little later than anticipated, on the relatively long journey to Hirwaun in the heads of the valleys.

Last year's match at the Recreation Ground had been a torrid affair for the Villagers who left it late to steal the win, and therefore there was some trepidation amongst the travelling supporters.

What should have been a relatively comfortable fixture, given the relative positions of each team in the league tables, was to be anything but.

Hirwaun got the proceedings underway and kicked off with the wind at their backs. The hosts started brightly and applied early pressure on Dinas, drawing numerous penalties within the first five minutes of the match.

After several attempts to cross the whitewash they opted to kick for goal and walked away with three points as a reward for their efforts.

The apocalyptic conditions were not conducive to the open expansive game of Dinas and it soon became apparent to all watching that the game would be won by the narrowest of margins.

With the ball akin to a bar of soap both teams struggled to find their rhythm. However, it was Hirwaun who managed to maintain their discipline as the official awarded numerable penalties against the men from the Vale, handing both possession and territory to the opposition.

In the 30th minute Dinas prop Tom Patterson was shown a yellow card for allegedly handling in the ruck within the final 22 of the visitors' half.

A good scrum by Hirwaun almost proved fruitful as they forced their way over the try line only to be held up by some heroic defending. Having won the resulting scrum, the Villagers were able to clear their lines.

With just three minutes of the first half remaining, the home number 8 handed Dinas their first opportunity to go for goal as he was shown a yellow card for a swinging arm. Gavin Cooper's kick neatly bisected the posts and the half time score was level at 3-3.

After a stern halftime talk by the unimpressed Dinas coaching team, the visitors looked to assert themselves in the worsening conditions.

The restart from David Lloyd was deflected into touch by the receiving player and a free kick was awarded to the Villagers following an infringement at the ensuing lineout.

Opting to take a quick 'tap and go', the ball was spun wide and, after three phases of play, found itself in the hands of Lewis Dunleavy, who scored a very welcome try. The conversion by Cooper saw Dinas take the lead for the first time in the match, Hirwaun 3, Dinas 10.

The official was not giving either team any opportunity to play advantage and consequently the game descended into a torrid stop-start affair, punctuated with countless penalties and scrums. Neither side looked as though they would score.

Hirwaun were shown their second yellow card within 15 minutes of the restart but Dinas were unable to capitalise on the man advantage.

In fact it was the home team who would score next, as just minutes after returning to full strength, they crashed over in the corner for their first try of the match.

The conversion was missed which proved to be extremely lucky for the visitors as, after an extremely nervous final 10 minutes, the referee brought an end to a dire game in even worse conditions.

The weather had unquestionably played a significant part in keeping the scores low and, despite the win, there was a feeling that Dinas had dropped a valuable bonus point. As it transpired the team's close rivals Cambrian Welfare had suffered a rare defeat at the hands of fellow title challengers Treherbert.

Furthermore, Treherbert had prevented Cambrian from securing a losing bonus point, so consequently Dinas are now the only unbeaten team in Division 5 South Central, and regain the top spot, one point ahead of Treherbert who have played an additional game.

Dinas now have two weeks' respite due to the autumn internationals and will entertain Cefn Coed at the Common on November 23.

SW/MH

ATHLETIC YOUTH BATTLE THROUGH THE CONDITIONS

BRIDGEND Athletic youth's sixth league fixture was a potentially difficult away game at Bonymaen.

The game was played in horrendous conditions with heavy showers and a gale force wind blowing straight down the exposed pitch, with Bridgend Athletic playing with the wind in the first half.

So strong was the wind that it soon became clear that a kicking game would not work, either with or against this wind and both teams opted to keep the ball in hand. Even this proved difficult and passing had to be kept to short range.

The Athletic had the best of the early exchanges with back row forwards Lestyn Merriman and captain Rory Thomas running off the back of the set pieces at every opportunity and applying pressure on their opponents.

Despite numerous errors from both sides, the Athletic kept Bonymaen in their own half for long periods and with the scrum looking strong and the Athletic pack willing to take the game to their opponents the pressure eventually had to tell and after a period of controlled rucks and mauls the excellent Lestyn Merriman forced his way over on 12 minutes for the Athletic's first try.

Full back Liam Phillips went narrowly wide with the conversion to make the score 5-0 to the Athletic.

From the restart Bonymaen came straight back at the Athletic and showed they were not going to lie down and started to put together some good forward charges with their big front row prominent.

Indeed this forward work was rewarded on 17 minutes when after a period of pressure they levelled the score with an unconverted try to make the score 5-5.

This gave the Swansea side a big lift and they began to use their big forwards more and more.

The Athletic's defence was excellent, however, with Curtis Daniel, Hywel Cosby and Lloyd Griffiths making some big tackles. The lineout was also looking good with second row Matthew Bennett not only taking his own ball but stealing a number of Bonymaen's throw-ins.

The Athletic were awarded a penalty on 25 minutes but full back Phillips again went narrowly wide.

The first half ended at 5-5 and the Athletic would turn into the wind for what was going to be a tough half of rugby.

The second period started as the first had ended with both teams using their forwards to try and batter a way forward, with both sets of backs defending for their lives in the extreme conditions.

Eventually Bonymaen youth found some field position and after the Athletic infringed at the breakdown, they went ahead with a well taken penalty kick from 30 metres to take the score to 8-5 to Bonymaen.

This again gave the Swansea side a lift but the Athletic's defence was excellent.

The coaches began to use the very strong bench to good effect and to bring some fresh legs on to battle into the howling gale with Ben Jones coming on at full back for Liam Phillips, Jake Williams at scrum half for Tom McCauley and Craig Lewis at No. 10 for Josh Carey.

In the forwards Geraint Lang came on for Curtis Daniel, Zach Evans for George Carter, Ellis James for Matthew Bennett and Cian House for Scott Cusack.

Bridgend Athletic's pack was slowly beginning to get on top of the Bonymaen eight and with scrum half Jake Williams controlling things around the base of the scrum, there followed one of the best periods of play of the entire match when the Athletic rolled a series of rucks and mauls fully 70 metres.

After some heroic play the Athletic crashed over the Bonymaen line with five minutes to go, only to see the referee rule that the ball had been held up.

By this time the Athletic pack were not going to be denied and from the attacking scrum the ball was taking into another rolling maul and eventually replacement back row forward Geraint Lang got over for what would prove to be the winning score.

The conversion went wide to take the score to 10-8 to Bridgend Athletic, and two minutes later the referee blew the whistle for what must be the toughest game so far this season.

The coaches could not praise the 23 man squad highly enough in what was a game where team spirit was tested to the limits and the Athletic showed just how this group of players have developed this season.

The hard work will now continue next week in preparation for the District Cup match next week when Bryncesth travel to Newbridge Fields.

BARRY TYRE & AUTO CENTRE LTD

Don't get caught out this winter! Why should I fit winter tyres?

More than half of UK motorists admit feeling less safe driving in the winter, yet many of us do little to prepare our cars for the colder weather. Research commissioned by TyreSafe, the UK's leading tyre safety organisation, found the biggest worry for drivers in the winter is that they are more likely to have an accident as the roads feel more slippery.

Switching to winter tyres could dramatically increase your safety over the entire winter period and could even save you money. They're constructed to give you a much better grip, reducing your stopping distances on wet or icy roads. And because they are specially designed to operate in temperatures below 7°C, their wear rate is significantly better than normal 'summer' tyres in the colder winter months!

Last year, drivers struggled without winter tyres

- 54% of drivers said they felt less safe when driving in the winter.
- 45% of drivers said their biggest fear about driving in the winter was that they were more likely to have an accident as the roads felt more slippery.
- 1 in 3 drivers skidded on Britain's roads.
- 15% were involved in, or witnessed, an accident.
- 12% only narrowly avoided a collision.
- 1 in 6 drivers had to abandon their journey.

Let's put a stop to accidents this winter

THE Cadoxton Schools of Tae Kwon Do took a small contingent of new and experienced competitors to Aberdare to compete the Welsh Open tournament hosted by Rob Taylor.

The event started with traditional forms with a clean sweep for the Cadoxton School; Cody Jacobsen took first place, and Cian Allen taking second and third went to Maddison Allen.

Once the traditional forms were completed all the Point and Continuous Sparring sections got under way.

In the Point Sparring Cody Jacobsen, Maddison Allen took second place in their respective categories, while Cian Allen and Bradley Halford took third place.

In the Continuous Sparring sections, Cody Jacobsen came away with first place, Bradley Halford second and Maddison Allen third.

Thomas Haysham was entered into both the point and continuous sparring categories, but his coach Ron Thomas pulled him out with an injury as the following week he would be competing at the European games being held in Jersey.

For further information on Cadoxton Schools of Tae Kwon Do, telephone (01446) 406372.

RT

BRIDGEND SPORTS under-8s had two matches arranged on Sunday.

Welcoming Kenfig Hill and Mountain Ash at home, there was a nice turnout of players again this week with a squad of 11 - Nathaniel, Callum, Tom, Kian, Joel, McKenzie, Tyron, Iestyn, Dylan, Ruben and Cian.

The first game was against Kenfig Hill and Sports began the game full of beans and spirit. Their hard work at training has really started to show and their recent win seemed to give them the confidence they needed.

Sports were superb with their tagging this week and it seemed Kenfig Hill struggled to get past Sports defence. The first try of the game came from Tom for the Sports.

Kenfig Hill managed to get through the Sports defence and equalise the score to 1-1, which is how it finished.

The second game was against Mountain Ash and as the game began Sports started to show some signs of tiredness and their tagging didn't seem as sharp as it had in the previous game.

Mountain Ash had some quick players who were able to use the Sports tiredness to their advantage and break through the Sports defence and began to take the lead scoring two tries in quick succession.

Dylan then scored three tries for the Sports to bring the score to 3-2 and the Sports pulled up their socks and began to tighten up their defence and sharpen up their tagging. Mountain Ash then retaliated and scored another two tries, bringing the score to 4-3 to Mountain Ash.

Callum scored a try for Sports and again Mountain Ash retaliated scoring their fifth try. Callum scored another try which was then followed by a try by Joel bringing the score to 6-5 to Sports.

In both games there was some outstanding tagging, passing and tries from Sports and plenty of missed opportunities. The hard work the team and coaches have put in this season is really starting to show in their games.

MVP went to Dylan Morgan for his constant tagging, great running and well-taken tries.

UNDER-9S

The under-9s hosted Kenfig Hill and Mountain Ash in a round robin, but lost both games, 4-1 to Kenfig Hill and 7-5 to Mountain Ash.

In the first game, Kenfig Hill ran in a try from the start and kept going on from there. The Mules showed great defence, pushing the Sports back, forcing handling errors, which in turn caused the ball to be turned over for them to score again, giving them a 2-0 half-time lead.

Although the second half seemed a bit better, with a great try from Shea, Kenfig Hill ran in two more tries to win the half 2-1.

Next was the unbeaten Mountain Ash. The away side again scored from the start, but this time the Sports regrouped and pulled one back.

Mountain Ash then powered their way over again to make it 2-1. The Sports restarted and after some great phases of play scored on half-time to make the score 2-2.

The second half was a tough battle, with both sides producing some big tackles and some great tries, but in the end Mountain Ash proved too powerful and took the half 5-3.

Again this week the under-9s looked lethargic in the first game, showing no urgency until the game was lost.

The second game, although lost 7-5, showed some great determination and competed with a very big Mountain Ash side and the victory could have gone to either side.

Also pleasing was the boys starting to pass the ball and play as a team. The use of Oliver this week as a designated scrum half seemed to have paid off and gives us something else to work on in training.

UNDER-10S

The under-10s welcomed Kenfig Hill to Newbridge Fields on a blustery Sunday morning.

Sports started strongly and worked their way up to Kenfig's try line. Some quick passing from the ruck allowed Jack space to outstrip the cover defence to score the first try. This was converted by Owain.

Kenfig showed a similar ambition to spread the ball wide and quickly equalized. Strong running from Mac allowed him to break through Kenfig's defence, scoring a try, with a conversion by Josh. Although Sports had started well, for the rest of the first half some weak tackling allowed Kenfig Hill to score three tries and at half-time the score was 14-28.

The start of the second half was a similar story where Kenfig Hill dominated the ruck area and scored two further tries.

Sports showed their resolve and with far more commitment to tackling were able to spread the ball to James, who was able to dance through the defence and score, which was again converted by Owain.

After a good period of play by Sports James found himself in space and eluded the Kenfig tacklers to score. A good effort against tough opposition, the final score was 40-28.

MVP goes to Oliver Gardner for his tackling, his clearance kick and commitment in following up.

Team: Owain Peters, Morgan Rees, Rhys McNally, Rhys Vaughan, Mac Francis, Cullen Lloynton, Tom Gardner, Rory Lee, James Murray, William Littlewood, Joshua Wilkinson, Luke Yates, Will Price, Jack Davies, Rhys Chick, Archie Faulkner-Lerway and Oliver Gardner.

UNDER-11S

In the first half, Sports dominated right from a kick off against Kenfig Hill, and the first try, scored by Dafydd, was the result of a team effort, as the boys put into effect what they have been practising over and over again.

Dafydd also converted ensuring that Bridgend were seven points up within the first couple of minutes.

Although Kenfig managed to pull the scores back the Sports dominated the first half by continuing to play as a team, constantly passing and playing expansive rugby. Tries by Tomos (2), Dafydd and Xander ensured that the score was Sports 35, Kenfig Hill 7 at half-time.

Kenfig Hill are also known as the Mules and like the animal the team were stubborn in not giving in. The second half started and Kenfig came out attacking from the kick off and dominated the second half.

Sports were on the defensive and the team lost the composure and the concentration it showed in the first half.

It was only due to some key defending and some unlucky errors that Kenfig were unable to level the scores, but from nowhere Sports managed to score a try and secure the win.

Captain of the team was Jack and man of match went to Tomos because of his good rucking and passing.

UNDER-14S

The Sports had a tough day at the office against a very accomplished and ruthless Cowbridge side, losing 67-5. The visitors put on an impressive display of rugby and proved to be too strong for the Sports.

Cowbridge scored 11 tries during the match and they started the game off in fine fashion by scoring an early try, which certainly set the tone for the match.

They then went on to score a further five tries where they demonstrated a good skillset by scoring some strong, skilful and quick tries.

In no time at all the Sports were 36-0 down but they showed good effort when they scored a try of their own through scrum half Zak Hemsley who picked the ball up off a ruck and made a dashing run to crash over the line.

Cowbridge then scored another try which made the half-time score 41-5 to Cowbridge.

The second half once again saw Cowbridge score a number of tries. Many of their tries were from a long distance and the Sports just couldn't cope with the physical Cowbridge side.

Cowbridge then capped the game off in style when one of their players scored a great individual try, making several hand-offs in the process.

Overall the Sports didn't lose the game because of a lack of effort, they lost it as Cowbridge were far superior in all areas; hopefully they can get back to winning ways next week.

Cefn Riders battle through weather to win

CEFN RIDERS travelled to Baglan for a cup game due to the cancellation of their game the week before.

Due to the weather the game was delayed by 30 minutes as the referee was held up on the way to the game. The start of the game saw the rain driving down onto the pitch with severe winds, but that didn't faze the visitors as the Cefn team took the game to the home side.

The first 20 minutes showed that Baglan were up for the fight, challenging for every scrap of ball, and also doing pretty well with their pick and drive game.

At this time Cefn had their work cut out having to work extra hard in the loose to secure any ball; then, just at the turn of the half, the Riders produced some magic with a cracking try from full back Rob Curl, converted by Tom Carpenter.

At the interval the Riders coaches gave some stern words to the team as the Riders were playing against gale force winds and lashing rain.

At the kick off the Cefn team went to town, dominating the much bigger Baglan pack, as the Riders' back line produced some fantastic rugby for the conditions.

Next to cross the line was winger Dan Harris, having been put into space by Stu Curl. By now Baglan were showing signs of fatigue by the constant pressure being put on them by the Riders.

The next try was set up by centre Owen Davies and finished off by Rob Curl.

Cefn were now firmly in the driving seat, out-playing the opposition, and there was one more try scorer, veteran coach Geraint Carpenter, who showed his experience on the field by guiding the forwards on.

There were some outstanding performances from Adam Ricketts, Rhys Pilliner, veteran Geraint Carpenter and stand-in captain Chris Bruno, who lead his side to a great win in dreadful conditions, the final score 29-3 to the Riders.

Bridgend bridge club results

ON Wednesday, October 30, the clear winners were Geoff Barnes and Peter Bugden, who have become a force to be reckoned with.

Second were Irene Thomas and Graham Jones and third John Beard and Glyn Williams.

There were no Halloween horror stories on Thursday in the afternoon gentle duplicate, with the best placed improver being Norma Phinnemore, who won, partnered by John Henson, closely followed by V. Irene Thomas and Dilys Bowser, with Stuart Davis and Colin Lewis in third spot.

Remember that all are welcome to attend these Thursday afternoon sessions in Noltan Church Hall, where tuition is followed by supervised play.

For further information please contact either Steve Burgoyne on 01656 661968 or John Evans on 01656 880372, or visit the club website.

Friday's session was divided into North/South and East/West sections, with Bill Turner and Dennis Mottram winning the former, followed by Vida Halford and Glyn Williams, with Liam Sheridan and Alan Williams third.

The East/West section was convincingly won by John Henson and Terry Dolan with an impressive 70 per cent score, with Emer Disley and John Whately second and Graham Jones and Irene Thomas third.

Gymnasts are on top form!

Catrin Long and Bethan Wryde.

BARRY YMCA gymnasts put in some great performances at the recent South Central Novice Championships.

Competing against gymnasts from clubs in the counties of Bridgend, Caerphilly, Merthyr Tydfil, Rhondda Cynon Taff and the Vale, the Barry gymnasts performed routines on vault, bars, beam and floor.

In the 8/9 years category Bria Karim became the vault champion and also gained a sixth place ribbon on floor. Her team mate Evie Wong gained a third place on bars while the team of Bria, Evie, Celyn Powell, Sophia Foscolo and Tamzin Williams gained 4th place ribbons.

The 10/11 years team of Chloe Gabb, Kelsey Cross, Tesni Gardiner and Caitlin Meadows gained bronze medals and there was also individual success in this age group for the Barry gymnasts.

Tesni placed second on floor and gained a fifth place ribbon on bars, while Kelsey placed third place on bars. Chloe also gained an individual ribbon placing 5th on floor while Caitlin placed fourth on bars and fourth overall, and Seren Williams placed seventh on beam.

The older gymnasts from the club also had success. In the 12/13 years category the team of Catrin Long, Ellice Stockford and Seren Mirza-Davies climbed onto the podium in second position.

All three had individual success with Ellice placing 1st on vault, gained a sixth place ribbon on bars and sixth overall. Catrin placed fifth on beam, fourth on bars and fifth overall while Seren placed second on bars and seventh overall.

Bethan Wride represented Barry in the 14+ years competition. Only competing in her second four piece competition Bethan gained a fourth place ribbon for her beautiful floor, placed fifth on beam and sixth overall.

Due to their strong overall performances Catrin Long, Caitlin Meadows and Bethan Wride all gained selection to represent the area at the Welsh finals.

In the 10/11 years category Caitlin placed second in Wales on vault as did her clubmate Catrin in the 12/13 years event. Bethan also climbed onto the podium gaining a bronze medal on floor.

All three climbed onto the podium for a second time when Catrin and Bethan helped their respective age group teams to the silver medal and Caitlin assisted the 10/11 years team to bronze.

Well done to all gymnasts and thanks as always to the dedicated coaches and judges at Barry YMCA Gymnastics Club - Aimee, Anne, Caitlin, Charlotte, Leanne, Olivia, Rachel, Kiera and Karen.

For further information regarding the opportunities available at Barry YMCA Gymnastics club please call 01446 724001.

The club will shortly be holding an open session for gymnasts demonstrating the potential and desire to become competitive gymnasts. To register for this session please contact the above number to place your details on the list.

Llantwit Major Cavaliers hold presentation evening

LLANTWIT MAJOR Cavaliers recently held their end-of-season presentation night at the Boverton Castle. A lovely meal was served and the night was enjoyed by all.

Vale Resort offers new technology – but will golfers be as smart as their phones?

The 3D Flyover technology is used by broadcasters such as Sky Sports HD and Matchroom Sport and top tournaments including the PGA EuroPro Tour.

Golfers can watch the journey to the green through aerial shots of each hole, offering insight on how the course should be best played, before teeing off. The flyovers can be watched on the Vale Resort's website or at the Resort's pro shop.

Players tackling the Vale Resort's Wales National Course and Lake Course can also benefit from the 3D-GPS smart phone app with pin-positioning technology. This enables golfers to calculate their distance to the front, middle and back of the green, so they know what club to use.

The resort's GPS app also has a digital guide to playing both of the courses and access to the 3D Golf Flyover of each hole. The app and its GPS technology is also available on fixed screens secured to the resort's golf buggies.

"This technology revolutionises how golfers can prepare before head-

Junior netball team has fine start to season

BARRY netball team Red Dragon Juniors have had an exceptional start to the netball season with the under-13 squad and under-11 squad winning all their opening games in the Cardiff and Vale Junior Netball League.

The under-10 have joined the league this year and played well in their first matches against older and more experienced opponents.

The club is now expanding to include netball mini tots and this will encourage children aged five to eight to take part in the sport and learn new basic skills, while making great new friends.

The squads are coached by former international Melanie Hellerman who is currently a director of Welsh Netball and the Cardiff and District Area Coach (UKCC Level 2), along with Sharron Allred founder of Red Dragons Senior (UKCC Level 1) and Jo (UKCC Level 1).

If you have a daughter aged five to 13 who would like to join our team, contact Melanie on 077936 52300.

STUDENTS SHINE AT CHAMPIONSHIPS

ON Sunday October 28, the Tae Kwon Do schools of Rhose and Llantwit Major competed in the Welsh closed championships.

The event was held at the Newport University campus Caerleon, with over 250 competitors from all over Wales.

Our students fought hard on the day with Ashton Curnick and Rhys Doel shining in the lightweight ranks, both winning first in green belt and red belt divisions, taking home gold medals.

Harry Burningham came a close second for the silver medal in the lightweight red belt division; we also had Jake Hayvice competing at his first tournament, winning his first match to go out in the second round (well done Jake!) and a hard fought round for Josh Edwards, who narrowly missed out!

The team event brought success with Menna Birmingham placing second in her team and Josh Edwards, Harri Burningham and Rhye Doel placing third.

Our newcomers to the competition circuit showed courage on all levels. Sean Edwards and Zac Hayvice both fought in the tiny tot division (under four foot) and Lynne Doel of Rhose, who runs her own childcare business, fought in the adult ladies' red belt division.

Lynne, who's only a yellow belt, fought in the higher ranks on the day - well done!

It was a good day for the clubs, whose success and hard work continue to grow, well done from all our team, keep chasing those medals!

Local vaulters' success

THE English Vaulting Championships were held at the Unicorn Centre Stow in the Wold on Saturday, October 26.

Rhi Hill from Cowbridge landed first place in the pre-novice individual and Carys Morgan, a Liverpool veterinary student from Church Village, came in first place in the bronze section of the senior individual; both performed in canter.

It was the first time competing for these young vaulters, who took third place with their Dalmatian routine in the 'walk class'.

BARRY GET THE WIN OVER LOCAL RIVALS

FACING heavy rain and gale force winds last Saturday, the Bard's description could well apply to the home supporters – "We few, we happy few, we band ..."

It certainly required both an efficient raincoat and a generous reserve of optimism to last the distance!

Barry played with both pitch slope and elements at their backs for the first session. It was clear that a substantial lead was necessary at the turn-round if they were to prevail.

Cowbridge utilized the only sensible tactic of playing the game tight to the set pieces and denying the home side as much possession and territory as possible.

Interestingly, Barry also played a forward orientated game in the opening stages, with the ball rarely going beyond the halfbacks.

This option soon bore fruit when Provis forced his way over the whitewash from close range. The conversion was missed from an eminently favourable position.

Indiscipline in the home ranks saw an unnecessary yellow card being issued for using unacceptable language to the referee. Cowbridge made the most of the ensuing manpower shortage to cross for a good try wide out.

With Tanner and Buckland proving a handful for the visitors, pressure resulted in two well-struck penalties.

A final penalty saw the Barry lead stretched to nine points going into the interval.

This margin appeared to be insufficient given the effect the conditions were having on proceedings.

From the outset of the second period, the whole Barry team showed that they were prepared to put in a full shift of tackling and ball carrying to ensure that Cowbridge had minimal opportunity to utilize the elements.

The visitors did break out to score a good try through their back division.

Barry replied with some sterling forward drives; with evergreen Tanner and Hollister to the fore, they set up camp on the Cowbridge line.

This stranglehold created sufficient pressure for Barry to make the crucial score of the second half.

It came after 30 minutes when prop forward, O'Sullivan, forced his way over the visitors' try line.

With both sets of players feeling the effects of a strenuous afternoon's work, it was left to the visitors to round off proceedings with a late penalty, the score finishing 19-15.

A curious facet of this game was that both teams played their best rugby when facing horrendous playing conditions!

This was a most encouraging performance by a Barry outfit that were prepared to put in the hard yards and work collectively to a common goal. It will be interesting to see if they reproduce this work ethic in the coming weeks.

Barry: Ryan, White, Buckland, Provis, Williams, Ritchie, O'Sullivan, Ashley, Adams, Luke, O'Sullivan, Poole, J.Adams, Tanner, McTavish, Hollister, Evans, Rhys O'Sullivan, Replacements, Hamonda, Flynn, Pirso, Oaten.

The next league fixture will be away to Bryncethin on Saturday November 23. CO

Dinas deliver true five star performance

DINAS POWYS FC had an excellent start in their game against Caerau when they were awarded a penalty in the eighth minute.

This game was always going to be difficult as far as good football was concerned with a near gale force wind blowing across the pitch forcing passes astray, and making it difficult for defenders to assess where high balls were going to drop.

The first chance for Dinas came when Ryan Garland brought a save from Caerau keeper Alyn Brain who pushed the ball out for an unproductive corner.

Marc Bonet then played Paul Penikett in and he drove on into the Caerau penalty area with the ball but was upended, the referee pointing to the spot without hesitation and Dimitri Fallas stepped up to drive the ball into the net for the opener.

At the other end Caerau were awarded a free kick just outside the area which Geraint Mizan took but his effort was well over the bar.

From a corner taken by Nicky Bruce, Garland again tested the keeper; and it was Garland again with a chance after good link up play by Bonet and Penikett, but Brain again saved his effort.

Another chance from a free kick came Caerau's way, Ryan Jones bringing a fine diving save from Dinas keeper James Curtain from 18 yards.

The hosts extended their lead on 33 minutes, Paul Penikett threading the ball through to Garland and this time he gave Brain no chance with a low shot for 2-0.

Just two minutes later Garland found the net again, this time running through on his own to drive the ball home for a fine solo effort and just before the interval Paul Penikett headed home a cross but was adjudged offside.

Early in the second half, with the wind even stronger, the hosts were awarded an early free kick, Connor Parsons taking it but eventually the Caerau defence cleared the danger.

The visitors tried their hardest to get into the game and began to get more possession. Dinas then rang the changes, bringing on new signing Tony Herrin for Bonet and Herrin soon impressed, laying a fine ball out to Nicky Bruce who hit a dipping shot from 35 yards which was just over the bar.

Fallas then gathered a pass out on the left wing but he took too long to get his cross away and was dispossessed.

However he learned his lesson and 25 minutes into the half he received another ball out wide and this time got his cross in to Paul Penikett who slotted home from six yards for 4-0.

Just a minute later the visitors pulled one back after a fine run and cross from Corey Davies found

Mizan and he beat

Curtain from 12 yards. Dinas then made two changes, player/manager Dave Penikett making way for Joe Briscoombe with Paul Penikett dropping into the back four, and Garland was replaced by Ben Ahmun for the final 10 minutes.

Both teams upped the work rate with Ahmun shooting over the bar and Caerau substitute Ryan Lewis forcing a save from Curtain. It was Caerau who closed the gap again, Mizan hitting a powerful shot to beat Curtain from 15 yards for 4-2.

A Bruce free kick caused a bit of a goal-mouth scramble with the ball hitting the right hand post and was finally cleared and an Ahmun free kick from 30 yards was gathered by Brain.

Dinas had the final say however in the last minute when Briscoombe threaded a fine ball through to Fallas who beat Brain from six yards for a 5-2 final scoreline.

Dinas are away to Croesyceiliog on November 9 with a 2pm kick off.

Squad: 1 James Curtain, 2 Nicky Bruce, 3 Connor Parsons, 4 Dave Penikett, 5 James Bloxham, 6 Marc Bonet, 7 Paul Dawes (c), 8 James Marr, 9 Paul Penikett, 10 Dimitri Fallas, 11 Ryan Garland, 12 Ben Ahmun, 14 Carlos Indjai, 15 Victor Arnaou, 16 Joe Briscoombe, 17 Tony Herrin. PK

AFTER the league game against Old Illydians was washed out, Barry Thirds headed to Canton for a friendly match.

With a spate of late withdrawals, including manager Chris Prosser, caretaker manager Ken Chow was once again forced into numerous changes as only 17 players travelled.

He recalled Matthew Tobin in the second row, and moved Nathan Jenkins to full back to accommodate his brother Tony for his first start of the season.

In conditions more suited to windsurfing than flowing rugby, Barry had the elements on their side in the first half, and was instructed by the manager to use it wisely.

Despite some early success with Joe McCann's boot, it was the home side which showed better adaptation to the conditions, and they were 12-0 up before the quarter hour.

Stern words were exchanged and from then on Barry toughened up their defence, especially on the fringes.

The forwards worked as a unit and began dismantling the Canton scrum, gaining ball against the head with ease, with Jason Thomas and Liam Ring to the fore.

Canton were finding it hard to make any ground despite their advantage in possession, as some superb tackling from Kyle Case, Paul Templeman and Sion Vidal saw all attacks repelled.

As the half went on Barry grew in confidence, and via another forward platform scrum-half Joel Williams jinked over for a well deserved try. McCann missed the extras.

At the interval the game was delicately in the balance, but the home side had the advantage of a large substitute bench as their first team game had been called off.

Barry had no such luxury and paid for it soon after the restart, as one of the Canton replacements darted through to score an unconverted try.

It seemed that Barry would crumble but once again they bounced back. An opportunistic kick forward was chased down by McCann, who grounded to the delight of the visitors. He was unable to add the conversion.

With the elements firmly against them Barry had their backs to the wall for the rest of the half, but the Canton attacking threat was nullified by a wall of green and white which defended their line with great spirit and effort.

Home props came and went as none were able to cope with the power of the Barry front row, and Thomas capped a fine game with a thunderous tackle towards the end which left the Canton lock reeling.

The home side did eventually break through in the dying moments, and their relief was clear to see as they finally put some clear daylight in the scoreline.

The final score was 22-10 but this was not a reflection of the effort and spirit displayed by a threadbare Barry side which battled throughout the 80 minutes; the management is extremely proud of all 17 players involved.

Barry Second XV will be involved in Cup action next Saturday at Reservoir Fields against Old Penarthians, with an early kick off at 1.30pm, while Barry 3rd XV will return to league action as they host St Peters on November 23.

Team: N Jenkins; T Jenkins, Dix, Avari, Jones; McCann, Williams (c); Thomas, Vidal, Ring; Hall, Tobin; Templeman, Case, Moffat. Replacements: Cabot, Evans; substitute not used: Chow. Man-of-the-match: Templeman. KC

Junior golfers are on way up

WITH many golf clubs in the area having difficulty finding members these days, it's been encouraging to witness the growth of St Andrew's Major Golf Club junior section this past season.

They have seen a 50 per cent increase in their membership, which is a testimony to the commitment and imagination shown by their junior organiser, Steve Thomas.

Through his efforts the juniors have been able to take part in weekly coaching sessions throughout the summer months and monthly sessions during the winter.

Under the tutelage of their coach, John Hastings, members of both the development and junior squads have seen a massive improvement in their golf, three of whom are now regulars in the Glamorgan county squad and two who were chosen for trials with the Welsh squad.

With competitions taking place throughout the season both on their home course and at other venues such as the Twenty-Ten course where their 'Road to Celtic Manor' tournament was held, the juniors have been able to test their skills on a regular basis which has paid off handsomely this season.

Their junior team went through the year undefeated in both the Inter-club and Skills competitions and have set their sites on maintaining this standard next year.

With the support the juniors enjoy the future looks bright for this relatively new club and is still welcoming new juniors to join either the development squad, for beginners and junior squad for advanced players.

Anyone who is interested in joining the St Andrew's Major junior section should contact Lesley Thomas on 01446 722227 or visit standrewsgolfclub.com.

The Sully bowlers are tripped up by visitors

THE visit of unbeaten Blaenau Gwent to the Sully Pavilion for this game against Sully IBC was eagerly awaited.

The visitors were unbeaten and sprinkled with junior and senior internationals; as for Sully, also unbeaten themselves, this was a must win game as they held the home advantage.

After five ends the Sully rinks held a narrow lead 29-25, the game was being keenly fought but by the 10th end the game had swung in favour of the Gwent side, 56-61.

By the 15th end Sully had fought hard to regain the lead by three shots with only the rink skipped by Dave Snelling struggling and behind by 12 shots against an excellent Blaenau Gwent rink.

With six ends to play the game was finely balanced and Sully were still in front by four shots.

shot advantage with two ends left to play but the game ebbed away from Sully after some poor decisions became costly, allowing the opposition 13 shots over the last two ends to win the game by 10 shots, 115-125.

On a positive note

there were good performances by the rinks skipped by Martin Clarke and Brian Foscolo, both winning well against formidable opponents.

The next game is on November 9, away to Newport. FP

After the off-field turmoil over who governs Europe.... Springboks are the Welsh team's big game focus

Picture by Huw
Evans Agency

IN 1974, the then Prime Minister, Edward Heath, famously ended weeks of conflict with the trades unions by putting the case for the status quo to the public's vote – with the slogan 'WHO GOVERNS BRITAIN?' – a miscalculation that rebounded in a hung Parliament and his eventual replacement by bitter leadership rival, Margaret Thatcher.

While the worlds of politics and sport as yet, thankfully, converge on only rare occasions (a notable example being the London Olympics) there is, nevertheless, a certain parallel to be drawn in the very public acrimony over the future of Europe's Heineken Cup that has threatened rugby union's equivalent of civil war – and has seemed to be less about the notion of 'fairness' than a naked struggle for power and control of a large chunk of the professional game in the northern hemisphere.

Many have accepted the need for reform and restructuring, to correct anomalies in the qualification system for European competition, and expressed some sympathy with the English Premiership and French league clubs, who also demanded a more equitable three-way split of financial proceeds with the Rabo Direct Pro 12 of Wales, Ireland, Scotland and Italy, than the prevailing 48%-52%.

However, what might have been reasonable grounds for negotiation soon became evident as nothing less than an Anglo-French putsch, designed to break away from the ERC's Heineken Cup altogether and replace it with their own Rugby Champions Cup; underwritten by a fat TV contract with BT Sport (in preference to current Heineken broadcaster, Sky).

At the same time, they invited the Pro 12 clubs to join "if they so wished", thus effectively sidelining the national unions, who were not prepared to sanction the move (apart from the RFU, who hovered nervously on the fence).

The war of words went on apace, with the FFR (Federation Francaise de Rugby) describing the new tournament as "irrelevant and inappropriate".

Meanwhile, the French league clubs' spokesman Paul Goze was insisting that "the Heineken Cup is dead" – as they would not take part in a European competition without the English clubs, who would henceforth be contracted to BT Sport.

The English clubs had bluntly declared that "next year there will be a Rugby Champions Cup – or there will be nothing", which clearly left little room for manoeuvre.

The situation escalated when the four cash-strapped Welsh regions, fearing a disastrous loss of revenue, ignored WRU warnings and came out in favour of the rival European competition, lured by the promise of improved financial rewards.

Since then, it appears the warring parties have drawn closer together, but at the time of writing it is still not clear if the fundamental question of who governs European rugby in the long run has been fully answered. (Mind you, unlike Edward Heath's 'who governs?' question in 1974, there is no chance of it being put to the rugby public's vote!)

Some very harsh things have been said and one can only hope that the fallout will have done no lasting damage to European relations.

At least attention now shifts to the place that really matters – the field of play – and for Wales, this means the autumn internationals and, more immediately, the renewal of hostilities with South Africa, who pipped them by just one point (17-16), when last they met two years ago at the Rugby World Cup in New Zealand.

While displays in the RWC and, more recently, the epic 30-3 win over England in the Six Nations earlier this year, have put a spring in the step of Welsh rugby, giving rise to renewed hope that the national team under Warren Gatland really has turned an important corner in terms of long-sought consistency, there can be no doubting the huge test that lies ahead at the Millennium Stadium, Cardiff on Saturday.

After all, the Welsh dragon has lost all but one of its 26 clashes (with one match drawn) against the Springboks, since they first met 107 years ago, on December 1, 1906 at St Helens, Swansea, going down 0-11.

Wales lost the next four in a row by narrow margins – before the gap between the two began to widen in 1995, with a 40-11 defeat for the tourists at Eden Park, Johannesburg.

Worse was to follow three years later, on June 27, 1998, with that infamous horror show at Loftus Versfeld, Pretoria, when rampant Springboks ran in 15 tries, to overwhelm Wales by 96-13 – as the jeering crowd cried out for more. Amazingly, just one year later, a heroic Wales team gained revenge with their first, and only, victory, 28-19, over the stunned Springboks at a half-completed new Millennium Stadium.

South African superiority was re-established in 2004 with another hefty 53-19 win, but the gap truly began to narrow in new head coach Gatland's first Grand Slam year, 2008, when battling Wales were edged out 15-20 at the Millennium Stadium.

The encouraging, but frustrating trend has continued – with only a handful of points separating them – the one-point margin at RWC 2011 following the four-point (25-29) deficit at the Millennium Stadium in 2010, on the last autumn occasion the two teams met in Cardiff.

The overall statistics may not make comfortable reading, with South Africa winning 24 out

So near and yet so far...again!

The last time the two teams met in the World Cup, South Africa scraped a one-point win over impressive Wales. Revenge would be sweet on Saturday, as the men in red strive for that elusive southern hemisphere scalp.

of the 26 matches and rattling up a total of 715 points to Wales' 367.

However, there is a new spirit abroad in this confident young Welsh squad, and while no-one underestimates the challenge they face from arguably the second best team in the world, it surely cannot be long now before they start to accumulate those coveted southern hemisphere scalps and complete the transformation under Gatland.

That startling, though isolated, 28-19 win in 1999, proved it can be done – and Welsh fortunes have come on leaps and bounds since then under the canny Kiwi.

Success in the autumn campaign would mark a major milestone on the carefully mapped-out road to the next Rugby World Cup.

It surely cannot be long before nail-bitingly narrow defeats are turned into triumph over the southern hemisphere big boys – and Saturday at the Millennium Stadium is a good place for Wales to begin the process of reversing the trend!

Apart from the All Blacks, they couldn't face a tougher obstacle this weekend. While England may have pointed the way with their 20-13 victory over the out-of-sorts Wallabies at Twickenham on Saturday, the match-hardened Springboks should prove more formidable opposition for a notoriously slow-starting Wales side, who will certainly not want a repeat of the whitewash they suffered in last year's autumn tests.

WALES TEAM: Leigh Halfpenny (Blues), George North (Northampton Saints), Jonathan Davies (Scarlets), Scott Williams (Scarlets), Eli Walker (Ospreys), Rhys Priestland (Scarlets), Mike Phillips (Unattached): Gethin Jenkins (Blues), Richard Hibbard (Ospreys), Adam Jones (Ospreys), Bradley Davies (Blues), Alun Wyn Jones (Ospreys), Dan Lydiate (Racing Metro), Sam Warburton (Blues, capt), Toby Faletau.
